Racism And Justice The Case For Affirmative Action:

Racism and Justice Gertrude Ezorsky, 2018-08-06 Affirmative action does it really counteract racism Is it morally justifiable In her timely and tough minded book Gertrude Ezorsky addresses these central issues in the ongoing controversy surrounding affirmative action and comes up with some convincing answers Ezorsky begins by examining the effectiveness of affirmative action as a remedy for institutional racism in the workplace She analyzes the ways in which common practices selection of employees based on personal connections qualification and seniority standards perpetuate the injurious effect of past racial discrimination and she assesses the rationale for such affirmative action measures as objective job related testing numerical goals and preferential treatment for basically qualified blacks To illuminate the social reality in which affirmative action takes place she draws on recent work by social scientists and legal scholars Turning to the moral issues Ezorsky posits two basic justifications for affirmative action first looking backward to provide deserved compensation for past racial injustice that was sanctioned practiced and encouraged by our government second looking forward to promote racial desegregation in the American workplace Unlike some supporters of affirmative action she does not deny that preferential treatment may place an unfair burden on white males Indeed she suggests specific practical measures for spreading that burden more equitably Clear headed well reasoned and persuasive this book will be read eagerly by everyone from students to legislators by anyone concerned with racial justice in America Making the Human Corinne Mitsuye Sugino, 2024-11-15

From the debate over affirmative action to the increasingly visible racism amidst the COVID 19 pandemic Asian Americans have emerged as key figures in a number of contemporary social controversies In Making the Human Race Allegory and Asian Americans Corinne Mitsuye Sugino offers the lens of racial allegory to consider how media institutional and cultural narratives mobilize difference to normalize a white Western conception of the human Rather than focusing on a singular arena of society Sugino considers contemporary sources across media law and popular culture to understand how they interact as dynamic sites of meaning making Drawing on scholarship in Asian American studies Black studies cultural studies communication and gender and sexuality studies Sugino argues that Asian American racialization and gendering plays a key role in shoring up abstract concepts such as meritocracy family justice diversity and nation in ways that naturalize hierarchy In doing so Making the Human grapples with anti Asian racism s entanglements with colonialism antiblackness capitalism and gendered violence Racial and Ethnic Relations in America: Politics and racial Carl Leon Bankston, 2000 Volume 2

Controversies in Equal Protection Cases in America Anne Richardson Oakes, 2016-03-03 This collection engages with current issues on equal protection in the USA as seen from the perspectives of leading academics in this area Contributors with a range of perspectives interrogate the legal theoretical and factual assumptions which shape case law and consider the extent to which they satisfactorily address contemporary concerns with social hierarchies and norms Divided into five parts the study focusses on the connections between equal protection jurisprudence discrimination in its contemporary manifestations the implications of identity politics and the moral and political conceptualizations of equality that represent the parameters of debate Drawing on historical analysis and disciplinary insights of the social sciences the book bridges the gap between theory and practice The themes presented and analyses developed are among some of the most contentious currently in America and will be of interest not just to lawyers and legal academics but also to inter disciplinary social science researchers including sociologists economists and political scientists

Comparative Equality and Anti-Discrimination Law, Third Edition David B. Oppenheimer, Sheila R. Foster, Sora Y. Han, Richard T. Ford, 2020-02-28

This revised and updated casebook comprehensively compares the U S legal approach to problems of inequality and discrimination with the approaches of a variety of other legal systems around the world

Affirmative Action on Trial Melvin I. Urofsky, 1997 Affirmative action continues to be one of the most hotly contested issues in America Volatile and divisive the debates over its legitimacy have inspired a number of reverse discrimination suits in the federal courts Like the landmark 1978 Bakke decision most of these have focused on preferential treatment given racial minorities In Johnson v Santa Clara however the central issue was gender not race discrimination and the Supreme Court s decision in that case marked a resounding victory for women in the work force Johnson v Santa Clara involved two people who in 1980 competed for a dispatcher position with the transportation department of Santa Clara County California Paul Johnson had more experience and slightly higher test scores but Diane Joyce was given the job based on affirmative action An irate Johnson sued the county and won only to have the decision reversed in appellate court That reversal was subsequently upheld in the Supreme Court s 1987 decision reaffirming that it was legitimate for employers to consider gender in hiring

Preeminent legal historian Melvin Urofsky proves an exemplary guide through the complexities of this case as he takes us from the workplace through the various levels of our federal court system Balancing the particulars of the case with an overview of constitutional law and judicial process he creates a model legal history that is both appealing and enlightening for the non scholar Urofsky is especially good at highlighting the fundamental human drama of this case and shows how Johnson and Joyce were simply ordinary people each with valid reasons for their actions but both ultimately caught up in legal and social issues that reached well beyond their own lives

Affirmative Action on Trial pointedly addresses the issue of sex discrimination and the broader controversy over the place of affirmative action in American society The latter continues to generate headlines like those that followed the 1996 Supreme Court decision to let stand a lower court ruling that race cannot be used as a determination for admission to academic programs More recently several states have even taken steps to end affirmative action altogether While it s hard to tell how such actions will ultimately impact affirmative action there s no question that the rulings in cases like Johnson v Santa Clara will continue to guide and influence the debates both inside and outside the courtroom decisions that revisited the practice and constitutionality of affirmative action at the college level The result was a divided opinion that neither completely repudiated affirmative action nor completely condoned its practice The Bakke Case Howard Ball,2000 Examines the law and politics surrounding the Bakke case a case claiming reverse discrimination considered by many as the most important civil rights decision since the end of segregation New Politics ,1992 Race and Redistricting Tinsley E. Yarbrough,2002 Through much of the 1990s a newly hatched snake wreaked political havoc in the South When North Carolina gained a seat in Congress following the 1990 census it sought to rectify a long standing failure to represent African American voters by creating under federal pressure two majority minority voting districts One of these snakes along Interstate 85 for nearly two hundred miles not much wider than the road itself in some places and was ridiculed by many as one of the least compact legislative districts ever proposed From 1993 to 2001 three intertwined cases went before the Supreme Court that decided how far a state could go in establishing voting districts along racial lines Noted Supreme Court biographer Tinsley Yarbrough examines these closely linked landmark cases to show how the Court addressed the constitutionality of redistricting within the volatile contexts of civil rights and partisan politics A suit was first filed by Duke University law professor Robinson Everett a liberal who loathed discrimination but considered racially motivated redistricting a clear violation of the Fourteenth Amendment's equal protection clause Yarbrough tells how Everett enlisted associates as plaintiffs and went on to win two Supreme Court victories in Shaw v Reno 1993 and Shaw v Hunt 1996 both by 5-4 decisions Following the creation of another flawed redistricting plan he rounded up a new set of plaintiffs to take the battle back to the Supreme Court But this time in Easley v Cromartie on the swing vote of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor the 5-4 vote went against him Yarbrough shows the significant impact these cases have had on election law and the fascinating interplay of law politics and human conflict that the dispute generated Drawing heavily on court records and on interviews with attorneys on both sides of the litigation he relates a complex and intriguing tale about these protracted struggles His cogent and balanced analysis considers whether the state legislature was wrong in using race as a measure for establishing the new district or whether it was simply engaging in the time honored practice of gerrymandering to ensure political balance Race and Redistricting spotlights efforts to racially engineer voting districts in an effort to achieve fair representation By examining one state's efforts to confront such dilemmas it helps readers better understand future disputes over race and politics as well as the ongoing debates over our color blind constitution The Harvard Blackletter Journal ,1985 Affirmative Action Albert G.
