Pharmaceutical Drugs International

Agency for Research on Cancer, IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans, 1990 Reports the deliberations of a working group convened to evaluate the carcinogenic risk to humans posed by the therapeutic use of 15 pharmaceutical drugs. The volume features separate monographs on five antineoplastic agents, four antimicrobial agents, two diuretics, ciclosporin, an immunosuppressant, cimetidine, used in the treatment of gastric and duodenal ulcers, paracetamol, a popular analgesic and antipyretic drug, and dantron, a laxative. Drugs were selected for inclusion on the basis of published data suggesting carcinogenic effects in experimental animals or in human patients treated with the drug. The working group identified two of the drugs, ciclosporin and thiopeta, as human carcinogens. Ciclosporin, an immunosuppressant, is widely used in the prevention and treatment of graft versus host reactions in bone marrow transplantation and to prevent the rejection of kidney, heart and liver transplants. Often given to transplant recipients for several months, ciclosporin has been linked to a remarkably high occurrence of lymphomas, found predominantly in the gastrointestinal tract as well as to skin cancer and Kaposi's sarcoma. The carcinogenicity of thiopeta, a cytostatic agent used in the treatment of malignant lymphomas and solid tumours, has been clearly demonstrated in both experimental animals and human patients, where treatment with the drug has been linked to the development of leukaemia. Azacitidine, chloramphenicol, and chlorzotocin were judged to be probably carcinogenic to humans, while dantron and trichlormethine were identified as possible human carcinogens. The remaining substances could not be classified on the basis of currently available evidence. The experts also noted that long term experiments with paracetamol, nitrofurantoin, and nitrofuril have shown reductions in tumour incidence at some sites in some animal species.

Some Traditional Herbal Medicines, Some Mycotoxins, Naphthalene and Styrene IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans, International Agency for Research on Cancer, 2002. This monograph evaluates the carcinogenic risks to humans posed by the use of some traditional herbal medicines, fumonisin B1, and the industrial organic chemicals naphthalene and styrene, and provides an update of the data on the carcinogenicity of aflatoxin.
