Health Promotion in the Universities and Other Educational Settings

Miguel Corbí, Antoni Aguilo, Carmen Gallardo Pino, Mario Del Líbano, Carlos Emanuel Rodriguez-Diaz, Hiram V. Arroyo Acevedo, 2025-09-17 The promotion of health in universities is of great importance as it allows for the encouragement of healthy lifestyles and the prevention of diseases among students teaching staff and administrative personnel The university is a conducive environment for the promotion of healthy habits since firstly it is usually the moment when the students make decisions under their responsibility and secondly it is a place where academic sports and social activities take place so it is also an ideal moment to promote changes that can be transferred to society and the rest of the individual's life Health promotion in universities can cover several areas such as healthy eating physical exercise prevention of addictions emotional and social mental health among others It can also involve the entire university community from students to administrative and teaching staff In the case of students it is essential as it is a period of change and habit formation and the fact that they will be the future decision makers of society

Health Promotion in Palliative Care Beate André, Gerd Inger

Ringdal, 2023-04-24 This book discusses the serious consequences of experiences of death and dying both for the dying and their family members and the family members' grief work and health after the death of their loved ones The book will also present a health promotion perspective of palliative care patients their families and healthcare workers All approaches to patients and their families must be based on individual contexts and frameworks and should be adjusted accordingly The possibility of following up with the bereaved after the death of their loved ones as an important health promotion intervention The healthcare workers in palliative care are subject to different stressors than other medical professionals and the priorities are not the same as in other settings ultimately fulfilling the patient's wishes as well as their needs is essential
