Reshaping Retail Stefan Niemeier, Andrea Zocchi, Marco Catena, 2013-06-06. The modern retail system has worked to dazzling effect. From the 19th century store owners emerged from small beginnings to set in train an industry that has seen some operators become nationally even globally dominant. Along the way they turned retailing into an art and then a science. Now retailers in emerging markets appear to be repeating the story all over again except on a scale and at a speed beyond anything we have seen before. Given all of this it can be hard for those who work in retailing to accept that the industry as we know it is living on borrowed time on the brink of transformation. There is now an urgency with which conventional store-based retailers must now act and the extent of the challenges this change represents in strategic, organizational and above all technological terms. Reshaping Retail sets out the driving causes, current trends and consequences of a transformation in retail triggered by technology. The changes go far beyond making items available for sale on the internet. Starting by briefly setting the historical and business system contexts for retail and describe the role that technology has played in the creation of modern retail, it then explains the underlying technological drivers behind the current revolution: radical changes in the capacity of both hardware and software, mobile telecommunications changes and the advances of the Internet. Ultimately success will hinge on more than competence; it will come down to a way of thinking. Customer-centricity will need to be valued not just by the store owner as in the past but also by all employees in the organization. It will need to become embedded in their daily tasks. The same applies to technology which must be at the center of the organization and recognized as such by everyone. With a combination of extensive desk and field research, interviews with leading retailers and technologists together with the real world experience of practitioners in this area, Reshaping Retail will inspire and help store retailers to make the necessary transformation now to win in the new consumer-driven world.

The Social Network Business Plan David Silver, 2009-03-23. All of us know that users of the Web do not read advertisements on the websites we visit yet the online communities are emerging as the next great media, rely solely on this method to produce revenue. In The Social Network Business Plan social network expert David Silver presents and explains 18 cutting edge methods to create revenue for social network websites, none of which are advertising. He also predicts the demise of seemingly successful online communities such as MySpace and Facebook that rely on advertising as non-sustainable modalities. Silver describes and explains that in the future new products and services will be introduced, talked about, rated, reviewed and recommended or killed by online communities. One example of the 18 new revenue channels that online communities are adopting is the sale to vendors of anonymized conversations of the community members concerning those vendors products or services Another example is online communities who partner with the internet providers to receive payment when a particular online community's information is downloaded using that providers service The other sixteen revenue channels are equally head turning Silver is the only angel investor operating down where the rubber meets the road who is investing in online communities in their infancy and writing about which ones will win and which ones will fail
