learning at an early age and deepens our understanding of early foreign language learning. The studies use an array of methodological approaches to research learners aged between three and ten as well as their parents and teachers in instructional minimal input settings. They describe various ways of organising and promoting very early foreign language learning both through language policy and innovative pedagogy and focus on ways of providing input for second language acquisition which include oral classroom discourse strategies as well as learner development of literacy skills. Special attention is given to the necessity to develop critical reading skills, the ability to handle multimodal texts and attitudes, motivations and behaviours and how these may impact on the teaching and learning process. Chapters emphasise that ultimate outcomes depend on extra linguistic environmental factors such as parental involvement and teacher competences. These include establishing control in the classroom as well as using appropriate strategies for Negotiation of Meaning and helping learners build positive self concept. Second Language Acquisition Myths Steven Brown, Jenifer Larson-Hall, 2012-03-15. This volume was conceived as a first book in SLA for advanced undergraduate or introductory master's courses that include education majors, foreign language education majors and English majors. It is also an excellent resource for practicing teachers. Both the research and pedagogy in this book are based on the newest research in the field of second language acquisition. It is not the goal of this book to address every SLA theory or teach research methodology. It does however address the myths and questions that non specialist teacher candidates have about language learning. Steven Brown is the co author of the introductory applied linguistics textbook Understanding Language Structure Interaction and Variation textbook and workbook. The myths challenged in this book are: Children learn languages quickly and easily while adults are ineffective in comparison. A true bilingual is someone who speaks two languages perfectly. You can acquire a language simply through listening or reading. Practice makes perfect. Language students learn and retain what they are taught. Language learners always benefit from correction. Individual differences are a major, perhaps the major factor in SLA. Language acquisition is the individual acquisition of grammar.

The Role of the First Language in Foreign Language Learning Håkan Ringbom, 1987. This book is concerned with the foreign language learner's underlying processes. The book analyses the different ways in which the learner's knowledge of the first language and other languages affect the processes of comprehension and production.
