ACE Bulletin, 1994

Playtime in the Primary School Peter Blatchford, 1989. A practical account of playtime, this book should be helpful to all those involved in primary education. It provides a series of recommendations to encourage the development within schools of a clear policy towards this neglected part of the school day. Playtime and Seedtime Francis Wayland Parker, Nellie Lathrop Helm, 1902

Jacques Tati, a Guide to References and Resources Lucy Fischer, 1983 Troubled Families-Problem Children Carolyn Webster-Stratton, Martin Herbert, 1994-06-30. Approximately two thirds of all children referred to mental health agencies are labeled conduct disorder. Typically such children exhibit antisocial behavior, lying, cheating, stealing, firesetting, fighting, oppositional behavior and noncompliance to parental requests at abnormal rates. Troubled Families Problem Children helps the mental health clinician understand the most effective therapeutic processes for supporting families who have children with conduct disorders. Help for these families is particularly urgent as the children are not only at increased risk of abuse by their parents but are more likely to be involved in school dropout, alcoholism, drug abuse, juvenile delinquency etc. and also to suffer from poor physical health. From the Foreword by Thomas Ollendick. What sets this book apart from others of its genre is its careful attention to and elucidation of the collaborative process in working with these oppositional, defiant and conduct disorder children and their families. Webster-Stratton and Herbert do not just talk about troubled families and problem children; rather they bring them to us in rich and graphic detail. Troubled Families Problem Children is an outstanding and scholarly contribution to the field. The Junior School Project, 1986*

Playtime is Science Barbara Sprung, Educational Equity Concepts (New York, N.Y.), 1990. A program of science activities for children in the early childhood years and their parents is offered. The three different formats of the Playtime Is Science program are adaptable to a variety of settings and schedules. The Parent Child Activity Program includes one parents only session in which participants learn that routine chores involve physical science concepts they can share with their children. During the remaining four sessions, children are given 45 minutes to learn activities. Parents act as facilitators in the activities. In the second version of the program, Parents as Teachers, parents work not only with their own children but also with their children's classmates. The third version, Super Science Saturday, gives parents a chance to use the program on weekends. The five core activities of the program involve physical science experiences with materials commonly found in the home. Activities include making and using sieves creating a mystery bottle making and tossing bean bags building with wonderful junk and discovering how machines work Sections of the guide provide directions a program overview a resource list of appropriate picture and activity books and step by step activity sheets RH Handbook of Parent Training James M.

Briesmeister, Charles E. Schaefer, 1998 Unlike other books on parent training this Handbook takes a purely prescriptive approach Each author begins by identifying a specific problem and then describes an approach to identifying assessing and treating the problem In every instance descriptions of therapeutic techniques are multimodal integrating theory research implementation strategies and extensive case material
