Post Communism And The Media In Eastern Europe:

Post-Communism and the Media in Eastern Europe Patrick H. O'Neil, 2014-01-14 This investigation of the media in Poland the Czech Republic Slovakia Hungary Romania and Bulgaria seeks to outline the legacies of communism confronting media reform and how interaction between the media state society and market has led to the particular and unique dynamics in each case

Media Transformations in the Post-Communist World Peter Gross, Karol Jakubowicz, 2012-10-18 Media Transformations in the Post Communist World Eastern Europe's Tortured Path to Change edited by Peter Gross and Karol Jakubowicz is a collection of analyses of Eastern European media by some of the most distinguished scholars in the field This in depth exploration shows how despite positive changes after the fall of Communism the transformations of societal institutions including the mass media have turned out to be slow uncertain and unsatisfying to many when measured against the admittedly ambiguous and overly Panglossian expectations This collection offers readers a different view of post Communist media by examining the mass media's evolution in the region from a more holistic perspective The contributors to this volume respond to essential questions including Is the post Communist transition and transformation over When can it be considered over Each chapter contributes to our understanding of these questions by offering theoretical overviews and country specific studies This collection serves as an affirmation that the study of mass media is essential to understanding the nature and workings of democracy in the long suffering nations of Central and Eastern Europe with international applications Media Transformations in the Post Communist World is an indispensable contribution to the study of Eastern Europe after Communism and the transformations of mass media in the region

Central and Eastern European Media in Comparative Perspective John Downey, Sabina Mihelj, 2012 An international line up of distinguished experts and emerging scholars methodically examine the different economic political cultural and transnational factors affecting developments in media systems across Central and Eastern Europe Whereas earlier works in the media system tradition have in the main adopted the political framework of comparative politics the authors argue that media systems are also cultural and economic institutions and there are other critical variables that might explain certain outcomes better Topics discussed range from political economy to gender inequality to the study of ethno cultural diversity

Special Issue: Post-communism and the Media in Eastern Europe Patrick H. O'Neil, 1996

Postcolonial Perspectives on Postcommunism in Central and Eastern Europe Dorota Kołodziejczyk, Cristina Șandru, 2017-10-02 A quarter of a century after the fall of the Berlin Wall and from the vantage point of a post Cold War globalised world there is a need to address the relative neglect of postcommunism in analysis of postcolonial and neo colonial configurations of power and influence This book proposes new critical perspectives on several themes and concepts that have emerged within or been propagated by postcolonial studies These themes include structures of exclusion inclusion formations of nationalism structures of othering and representations of difference forms and historical realisations of anti colonial anti imperial struggle the experience of trauma involving issues of collective memory

amnesia and the re writing of history resistance as a complex of cultural practices and concepts such as alterity ambivalence self colonisation dislocation hegemonic discourse minority and subaltern cultures Taken together this volume suggests that some of the methodological instruments of postcolonial criticism can be fruitfully applied to the study of postcommunist cultures and conversely that the experience of the Soviet brand of imperialist rule in the form of communism in East Central Europe can function as an ideological moderator in Third World oriented Marxist inspired postcolonial discourses This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Postcolonial Writing

The Handbook of European Communication History Klaus Arnold,Paschal Preston,Susanne Kinnebrock,2019-10-15 A groundbreaking handbook that takes a cross national approach to the media history of Europe of the past 100 years The Handbook of European Communication History is a definitive and authoritative handbook that fills a gap in the literature to provide a coherent and chronological history of mass media public communication and journalism in Europe from 1900 to the late 20th century With contributions from teams of scholars and members of the European Communication Research and Education Association the Handbook explores media innovations major changes and developments in the media systems that affected public communication as well as societies and culture The contributors also examine the general trends of communication history and review debates related to media development To ensure a transnational approach to the topic the majority of chapters are written not by a single author but by international teams formed around one or more lead authors The Handbook goes beyond national perspectives and provides a basis for more cross national treatments of historical developments in the field of mediated communication Indeed this important Handbook Offers fresh insights on the development of media alongside key differences between countries regions or media systems over the past century Takes a fresh cross national approach to European media history Contains contributions from leading international scholars in this rapidly evolving area of study Explores the major innovations key developments differing trends and the important debates concerning the media in the European setting Written for students and academics of communication and media studies as well as media professionals The Handbook of European Communication History covers European media from 1900 with the emergence of the popular press to the professionalization of journalists and the first wave of multimedia with the advent of film and radio broadcasting through the rapid growth of the Internet and digital media since the late 20th century

Eastern European Journalism Jerome Aumente,1999 This text covers five topics about journalism its roots in East Central Europe and former Soviet Union its role and effect leading up to the events of 1989 the transition period the contributions trials and tribulations from 1989 1996 and the state of journalism education in these regions

Entangled Evolutions Peter Gross,2002-05-08 The revolutions of 1989 swept away Eastern Europe s communist governments and created expectations on the part of many observers that post communist media would lead the liberated societies in establishing and embracing democratic political cultures Peter Gross finds that it was utopian to hold such expectations of the media in societies in transition On the one hand those countries media professionals had all learned their jobs under the communist regimes and could not instantly transform themselves into guides for a politically enabled populace Gross argues On the other hand newcomers to the media world even those who were notable literary figures viewed themselves as social and political leaders rather than mere informers and facilitators of the resocialization required to form new democracies The news media have remained highly politicized and partisan So how are the media civil society and political culture related in societies in transition And can changes in these relationships be anticipated To address these questions Entangled Evolutions examines media in post 1989 Eastern Europe It studies the effects of privatization of the media journalists relations to political figures institutional structures such as media laws professional journalistic culture and the media s relation to their market Sources include interviews with journalists and politicians sociological and political data from national surveys and media audience studies

Communication Ethics Now Richard Keeble, 2008 Communication lies at the heart of human experience After all we know about our world largely through communication We consume books advertisements photographs letters newspapers magazines and the broadcast media This book draws together pieces from the 2005 volume of Ethical Space Journal

Post-communist Eastern Europe Bernard J. Margueritte, 1995 Rude Awakening Karol Jakubowicz, 2007 This book examines processes of media change in post Communist countries In this re examination of the media under the Communist system and its role in the transition the stress is on analysis of media policy and media systems The author develops a model of change in Central and Eastern Europe and how it can be applied As such the intention is to illustrate the main elements and mechanisms of the process as exemplified by the situation in selected countries Hoping to make the book as forward looking as possible and to grasp the full range of factors weighing on media policies today and in the future discussion is devoted to the way international integration has affected and will affect media policy in post Communist countries The Transitional Media System of Post-communist Bulgaria Ekaterina Ognianova, 1997 Comparing Post-Socialist Media Systems Zrinjka Peruško, Dina Vozab, Antonija Čuvalo, 2020-10-04 This book explains divergent media system trajectories in the countries in southeast Europe and challenges the presumption that the common socialist experience critically influences a common outcome in media development after democratic transformations by showing different remote and proximate configuration of conditions that influence their contemporary shape Applying an innovative longitudinal set theoretical methodological approach the book contributes to the theory of media systems with a novel theoretical framework for the comparative analysis of post socialist media systems This theory builds on the theory of historical institutionalism and the notion of critical junctures and path dependency in searching for an explanation for similarities or differences among media systems in the Eastern European region Extending the understanding of media systems beyond a political journalism focus this book is a valuable contribution to the literature on comparative media systems in the areas of media systems studies political science Southeast and Central European studies post socialist studies and communication studies Medien und Transformation in Osteuropa Barbara Thomaß, Michaela Tzankoff, 2001-02-09 Zehn Jahre nach den gesellschaftlichen Umbrüchen in Ost und Südosteuropa ist der Forschungsstand zur Bedeutung der Medien in Transformationsgesellschaften sowohl in der Politikwissenschaft wie in der Kommunikationswissenschaft gering. Das vorliegende Buch führt diese beiden Forschungsbereiche zusammen und gibt Antworten auf die Fragen: Welche Rolle spielten Medien in der Phase des Umbruchs 1989/1990 und welche Rolle kommt ihnen im Prozess der Konsolidierung der postkommunistischen Gesellschaften zu? Wie sieht das Kräfteverhältnis der Medien in dem Akteursdreieck Medien-Staat-Wirtschaft aus? Wie haben sich die Handlungsspielräume der Journalisten in den letzten zehn Jahren verändert?

Comparing Media Systems in Central Europe Bogusława Dobek-Ostrowska, Michał Głowacki, 2008

Media, Democracy and Freedom Marta Dyczok, Oksana Viktorovna Gaman-Golutvina, 2009 This book does what few other works have done: it examines the role media have played in the larger political, economic and social transformations in the post-communist space. An international group of scholars from various disciplines explore the complex relations between media, society and the state in this region over the past twenty years and present theoretical arguments that challenge dominant views. They scrutinize changes in the public sphere as well as the media itself: its role, format, agenda and quality in the context of changing values and shifting power relationships.

Reporting the Post-communist Revolution Robert Snyder, 2018-04-27 The events of 1989 were the material of great reporting. They also revealed the power of journalism. Long before people in Central and Eastern Europe liberated themselves, they discovered democratic freedom: putting to print their own ideas and chronicling events of the day. Indeed, long before they had democracies in law, they had imagined them on paper. In the Solidarity network that produced books and leaflets and news bulletins in the essays of Václav Havel in the samizdat publishing house in Budapest that used a portable printing machine, Eastern Europeans demonstrated the organic link between journalism and self-government. They showed how journalism nurtures the imagination, dialogue and honesty that are basic to democratic life. If history had ended in 1989, there would be cause for easy optimism. The changes that swept Central and Eastern Europe passed with relatively little bloodshed. But the agonies of the former Yugoslavia, convulsions of the former Soviet Union and enduring battles with censors would bedevil emerging democracies. Not only does much remain for journalists to cover in Central and Eastern Europe; in some places, the fate of journalism is still an open question. For all these reasons, Reporting the Fall of European Communism explores not only the events of 1989 but new stories that have emerged in Central and Eastern Europe over the past decade. This volume will be of interest to media professionals, academics and others with an interest in the power of journalism.
