Post Work Wages Of Cybernation:

Post-Work Stanley Aronowitz, Jonathan Cutler, 2013-10-18 In Post Work Stanley Aronowitz and Jonathan Cutler have collected essays from a variety of scholars to discuss the dreary future of work. The introduction The Post Work Manifesto provides the framework for a radical reappraisal of work and suggests an alternative organization of labor. The provocative essays that follow focus on specific issues that are key to our reconceptualization of the notion and practice of work with coverage of the fight for shorter hours, the relationship between school and work, and the role of welfare among others. Armed with an interdisciplinary approach, Post Work looks beyond the rancorous debates around welfare politics and lays out the real sources of anxiety in the modern workplace. The result is an offering of hope for the future, an alternative path for a cybernation where the possibility of less work for a better standard of living is possible. Post-work Stanley Aronowitz, Jonathan Cutler, 1998

Universal Basic Income in Historical Perspective Peter Sloman, Daniel Zamora Vargas, Pedro Ramos Pinto, 2021-11-19 This new edited collection brings together historians and social scientists to engage with the global history of Universal Basic Income (UBI) and offer historically rich perspectives on contemporary debates about the future of work. In particular, the book goes beyond a genealogy of a seemingly utopian idea to explore how the meaning and reception of basic income proposals has changed over time. The study of UBI provides a prism through which we can understand how different intellectual traditions, political agents, and policy problems have opened up space for new thinking about work and welfare at critical moments. Contributions range broadly across time and space from Milton Friedman and the debate over guaranteed income in the post-war United States to the emergence of the European basic income movement in the 1980s and the politics of cash transfers in contemporary South Africa. Taken together, these chapters address comparative questions: why do proposals for a guaranteed minimum income emerge at some times and recede into the background in others? What kinds of problems is basic income designed to solve, and how have policy proposals been shaped by changing attitudes to gender roles and the boundaries of social citizenship? What role have transnational networks played in carrying UBI proposals between the global north and the global south, and how does the politics of basic income vary between these contexts? In short, the book builds on a growing body of scholarship on UBI and lays the groundwork for a much richer understanding of the history of this radical proposal. Work-Life Balance in Architecture Igea Troiani, 2024-03-04 This book seeks to improve the work lives of architects of diverse demographics who do not fit or want to replicate the traditional 24/7 white male architect lifestyle. Aimed at a workforce whose life and career expectations have changed drastically in recent years, it helps readers of different generations to make informed choices about their careers, enabling students, educators, and professionals to prioritise wellbeing and offer their design and practice voice to enhance a built environment for all. Work Life Balance in Architecture examines what it means to play the game of architecture to choose to study and pursue a career in architecture rather than another profession The book shows the economic social and professional structures within which architectural education and practice operate and reveals the impact of a corporate neoliberal big business mentality on wellbeing After setting out the context exacerbating work life imbalance the book discusses the paths an architect may take whether this leads to a career in practice or not in architecture at all and how alternative gameplay moves can advantage or disadvantage those of different gender class ethnicity race or age at different career stages It concludes by examining how the places in which an architect works the time available to work and critiques of perpetual neoliberal economic growth can enhance the lives of all architects today Elgar Encyclopedia of Economic Anthropology Cristina Grasseni,Erik Bähre,Douglas R. Holmes,Coco Kanters,2025-11-04 This Encyclopedia presents insights into societal change through the lens of economic anthropology Interdisciplinary in scope it outlines emerging themes in the field and explicitly connects theoretical debates to in depth empirical evidence This title contains one or more Open Access chapters

The Oxford Handbook of Work and Organization Stephen Ackroyd,2006 Aims to bring together present and discuss what is known about work and organizations and their connection to broader economic change in Europe and America This volume contains a range of theoretically informed essays which give comprehensive coverage of changes in work occupations and organizations

Working Without Commitments Wayne Lewchuk,Marlea Clarke,Alice De Wolff,2011 From the end of the Second World War to the early 1980s the North American norm was that men had full time jobs earned a family wage and expected to stay with the same employer for life In households with children most women were unpaid caregivers This situation began to change in the mid 1970s as two earner households became commonplace with women entering employment through temporary and part time jobs Since the 1980s less permanent precarious employment has increasingly become the norm for all workers International Labour Documentation International Labour Organization. Labor, Writing Technologies, and the Shaping of Composition in the Academy Pamela Takayoshi, Patricia Sullivan, 2007 The changing nature of the workforce and the increasing presence of technologies in composition studies promise to affect not only the ways we work but the very shape of the discipline This volume takes on the challenge of thinking about the intersections of work technology and composition studies in ways that are unprecedented These areas interact in numerous and significant ways yet the focus is often on the concepts in isolation from one another Authors in this collection explore technology and labor issues across a range of institutional locations to focus on working as scholars administrators of writing programs writing across the curriculum programs assessment programs teachers workers held accountable to bureaucrats and gendered and raced workers and the future roles compositions will adopt in the university and how technology affects those identities The chapters address the nature of composition labor in a technological society the new geographies of composition variety of identity and agency that are enabled and denied academic labor outside the classroom and academy and how virtuality impacts labor They provide varied perspectives on what issues are of import and alert researchers and teachers that a serious consideration of labor and writing technologies are needed to expand notions of what composition studies can and must be Publisher's description

Ethics for the Information Age Michael Jay Quinn, 2006 Widely praised for its balanced treatment of computer ethics Ethics for the Information Age offers a modern presentation of the moral controversies surrounding information technology Topics such as privacy and intellectual property are explored through multiple ethical theories encouraging readers to think critically about these issues and to make their own ethical decisions

Capitalism Rebooted? Dave Broad, Wayne Andrew Antony, 2006 Investigating the effects of the New Economy on Canada's workers and their families this study examines the promises made by the advances of technology and globalization versus the challenges that face workers today The changes that have been made in the working world have not been the predicted boon for laborers the book explains leading instead to under and unemployment and a rehash of an old exploitative system
