Postreagan America:

Devil's Night Ze'ev Chafets, 2013-09-03 A New York Times Notable Book On Devil's Night the night before Halloween some citizens of Detroit try to burn down their neighborhoods for an international audience of fire buffs This gripping and often heartbreaking tour of the Murder Capital of America often seems lit by those same fires But as a native Detroiters Ze'ev Chafets also shows us the city beneath the crime statistics its ecstatic storefront churches its fearful and embittered white suburbs its cops and criminals and the new breed of black officials who are determined to keep Detroit running in the midst of appalling dangers and indifference

Economics in the Long Run Theodore Rosenof, 2000-11-09 Though understandably preoccupied with the immediate problems of the Great Depression the generation of economists that came to the forefront in the 1930s also looked ahead to the long term consequences of the crisis and proposed various solutions to prevent its recurrence Theodore Rosenof examines the long run theories and legacies of four of the leading members of this generation John Maynard Keynes of Great Britain who influenced the New Deal from afar Alvin Hansen and Gardiner Means who fought over the direction of New Deal policy and Joseph Schumpeter an opponent of the New Deal Rosenof explores the conflicts that arose among long run theorists arguing that such disputes served eventually to set the stage for the emergence and domination of a short run Keynesian approach to economic policy that collapsed under the impact of 1970s stagflation Tracing the subsequent revival of long run theories Rosenof demonstrates their relevance to an understanding of the economy's problems over the past quarter century and to the current debate over public policy Originally published in 1997 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value

Martusewicz, Jeff Edmundson, John Lupinacci, 2014-08-21 EcoJustice Education offers a powerful model for cultural ecological analysis and a pedagogy of responsibility providing teachers and teacher educators with the information and classroom practices they need to help develop citizens who are prepared to support and achieve diverse democratic and sustainable societies in an increasingly globalized world Readers are asked to consider curricular strategies to bring these issues to life in their own classrooms across disciplines Designed for introductory educational foundations and multicultural education courses the text is written in a narrative conversational style grounded in place and experience but also pushes students to examine the larger ideological social historical and political contexts of the crises humans and the planet we inhabit are facing Pedagogical features in each chapter include a Conceptual Toolbox activities accompanying the theoretical content examples of lessons and teacher reflections and suggested readings films and links The Second Edition features a new chapter on Anthropocentrism new material on Heterosexism updated statistics and examples throughout new and updated Companion Website content From Jack Johnson to LeBron James Chris Lamb, 2016 The campaign for racial equality in sports has both reflected and affected the campaign for racial equality in the United States Some of the most significant and publicized stories in this campaign in the twentieth century have happened in sports including of course Jackie Robinson in baseball

Jesse Owens Tommie Smith and John Carlos in track Arthur Ashe in tennis and Jack Johnson Joe Louis and Muhammad Ali in boxing Long after the full integration of college and professional athletics race continues to play a major role in sports Not long ago sportswriters and sportscasters ignored racial issues They now contribute to the public s evolving racial attitudes on issues both on and off the field ranging from integration to self determination to masculinity From Jack Johnson to LeBron James examines the intersection of sports race and the media in the twentieth century and beyond The essays are linked by a number of questions including How did the black and white media differ in content and context in their reporting of these stories How did the media acknowledge race in their stories Did the media recognize these stories as historically significant Considering how media coverage has evolved over the years the essays begin with the racially charged reporting of Jack Johnson s reign as heavyweight champion and carry up to the present covering the media narratives surrounding the Michael Vick dogfighting case in a supposedly post racial era and the media s handling of LeBron James s announcement to leave Cleveland for Miami

The American Body in Context Jessica R. Johnston,2001 The body is a physical entity and a symbolic artifact It is both created in the world of nature and also physically reconstructed by a culture The body is both an internal subjective environment and simultaneously an object for others to observe and evaluate Bodily practices woven within a dense web of social relationships are then both individual and collective the individual body expresses cultural values rules and regulations in the daily routine of living The American Body in Context An Anthology is an interdisciplinary investigation of these body relationships examining the American historical and contemporary constructions of the body Through readings and exercises this new book allows readers to explore interrelationships between the individualized and the constructed nature of embodied experiences This comprehensive text draws together a wide variety of analyses and demonstrates the interdependence between the individual and the structural re productions of embodied experiences in the U S This is an excellent text for courses in American studies American society cultural and social anthropology and gender studies

The Nation ,1987-07 Vertrauensbildende Verteidigung ,1989 Civil Rights and Race Relations in the Post Reagan-Bush Era Samuel L. Myers,1997-11-30 Insightful essays from leading scholars and writers on civil rights and race relations focus on the retrenchment from the ideal of racial equality A common theme emerges the new civil rights agenda must embrace radically different perspectives in order to be successful in eradicating racial and ethnic economic inequality This volume combines insightful essays from leading scholars and writers on civil rights and race relations with provocative discussions by business professionals and community leaders on retrenchment from the ideal of racial equality It reviews what Americans really think about race and race relations while providing definitive assessments of the status of affirmative action The writers put forth convincing evidence that white privilege lies at the root of both current racial inequality and opposition to conventional approaches to remedying inequality The essays provide a backdrop for understanding the reversals in support of remedies to racial and ethnic inequality and for understanding why the new agenda that must be forged will need to account for the changing demographics of the minority population Essays in the volume also underscore how major demographic shifts and economic transformations have conspired with political reversals to make the agenda of the 1960s and 1970s civil rights movement obsolete Any new approach to racial and ethnic inequality must account both for the coloring of America and the persistence and entrenchment of white racism The book s final assessment will be of great interest to opinion leaders and officials as well as researchers and scholars in political science economics sociology and Black Studies
