Shanghai A Photographic Journey Of Chinas Most Cosmopolitan City:

The Cruel Radiance Susie Linfield, 2011-05-27 In The Cruel Radiance Susie Linfield challenges the idea that photographs of political violence exploit their subjects and pander to the voyeuristic tendencies of their viewers. Instead, she argues passionately that looking at such images and learning to see the people in them is an ethically and politically necessary act that connects us to our modern history of violence and probes the human capacity for cruelty. Grappling with critics from Walter Benjamin and Bertolt Brecht to Susan Sontag and the postmoderns and analyzing photographs from such events as the Holocaust, China's Cultural Revolution, and recent terrorist acts, Linfield explores the complex connection between photojournalism and the rise of human rights ideals. In the book's concluding section, she examines the indispensable work of Robert Capa, James Nachtwey, and Gilles Peress and asks how photography should respond to the increasingly nihilistic trajectory of modern warfare. A bracing and unsettling book, The Cruel Radiance convincingly demonstrates that if we hope to alleviate political violence, we must first truly understand it, and to do that, we must begin to look. Xanadu

Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today, skyscrapers tower over ancient temples, freeways deliver lines of cars, and tour buses to imperial palaces; cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera. The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese. Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century. Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history, this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities; the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior s Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays Asiaweek ,1984

Unfinished Journeys Ken McGregor,2006 Selected artists and their families were asked to travel to destinations of their choice and to create new artworks as a result of their experiences Asia, Inc ,2005 World-radio; the BBC Foreign Programme Journal ,1937 Arrival Cities Burcu Dogramaci,Mareike Hetschold,Laura Karp Lugo,Rachel Lee,Helene Roth,2020-09-01 Exile and migration played a critical role in the diffusion and development of modernism around the globe yet have long remained largely understudied phenomena within art historiography Focusing on the intersections of exile artistic practice and urban space this volume brings together contributions by international researchers committed to revising the historiography of modern art It pays particular attention to metropolitan areas that were settled by migrant artists in the first half of the 20th century These arrival cities developed into hubs of artistic activities and transcultural contact zones where ideas circulated collaborations emerged and concepts developed Taking six major cities as a starting point Bombay now Mumbai Buenos Aires Istanbul London New York and Shanghai the authors explore how urban topographies and landscapes were modified by exiled artists re establishing their practices in metropolises across the world Questioning the established canon of Western modernism Arrival Cities investigates how the migration of artists to different urban spaces impacted their work and the historiography of art. In doing so it aims to encourage the discussion between international scholars from different research fields such as exile studies, art history, social history, architectural history, architecture and urban studies.

Photographs of Peking, China 1861-1908 Nick Pearce, 2005. This book provides an addition to the small but growing body of literature on the practices of photography in China. Using a collection of a surviving nineteenth century photographs of Beijing held in the collection of the Oriental Museum, University of Durham, the author explores both the cityscape as it was recorded by two Scottish photographers and the interplay of personality and professional identities within the Foreign Legation quarter during a thirty five year period. Three people are central to the book: the professional photographer John Thomson, the amateur photographer and missionary doctor John Dudgeon, and Stephen Bushell, physician to the British Legation, pioneer historian of Chinese art and original owner of the collection of the photographs. They provide the context and practice and provenance for the photographs and offer insight into the life of the small contingent of Westerners who resided within the walls of China's capital here for the first time. The former revealed as an important contributor to the development of photography in China, the latter a major influence on the formation and interpretation of a number of important collections of Chinese art in Britain and America. This book will be of interest to historians of photography, art, architecture and China during the late nineteenth century. This erudite study is of interest not only to art historians but also to historians of China and of comparative colonialisms.
