The Shape of Futures Past Chris Morgan, 1980      The Future of History Alun Munslow, 2010-07-30 In this radical reassessment Alun Munslow challenges conventional notions of history and offers a new vision of historical thinking and practice Deploying a range of concepts such as scepticism aesthetics ethics standpoint irony authorship and a new understanding of truth The Future of History examines history as a form of knowledge in itself arguing that in the future the multiple forms of its expression will be as significant as its content This thought provoking challenging and unique book offers a way forward for history after postmodernism and is essential reading for anyone asking the question what is history

Exhibiting War Jennifer Wellington, 2017-09-21 What does it mean to display war Examining a range of different exhibitions in Britain Canada and Australia Jennifer Wellington reveals complex imperial dynamics in the ways these countries developed diverging understandings of the First World War despite their cultural political and institutional similarities While in Britain a popular narrative developed of the conflict as a tragic rupture with the past Australia and Canada came to see it as engendering national birth through violence Narratives of the war s meaning were deliberately constructed by individuals and groups pursuing specific agendas to win the war and immortalise it at the same time Drawing on a range of documentary and visual material this book analyses how narratives of mass violence changed over time Emphasising the contingent development of national and imperial war museums it illuminates the way they acted as spaces in which official academic and popular representations of this violent past intersect      Post-Wall German Cinema and National History Mary-Elizabeth O'Brien, 2014 German history films that focus on utopianism and political dissent and their effect on German identity since 1989 Since unification a radical shift has taken place in Germans view of their country s immediate past with 1989 replacing 1945 as the primary caesura The cold war division the failed socialist state the 68 student movement and the Red Army Faction historical flashpoints involving political oppression civil disobedience and the longing for utopian solutions to social injustice have come to be seen as decisive moments in a collective history that unites East and West even as it divides them Telling stories about a shared past establishing foundational myths and finding commonalities of experience are pivotal steps in the construction of national identity Such nation building is always incomplete but the cinema provides an important forum in which notions of German history and national identity can be consumed negotiated and contested This book looks at history films made since 1989 exploring how utopianism and political dissent have shaped German identity It studies the genre including popular successes critical successes and perceived failures as a set of texts and a discursive network gauging which conventions and storylines are resilient At issue is the overriding question to what extent do these films contribute to a narrative that legitimizes the German nation state Mary Elizabeth O'Brien is Professor of German and The Courtney and Steven Ross Chair in Interdisciplinary Studies at Skidmore College      Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society Held at Philadelphia for Promoting Useful Knowledge
