Der 77. Grad Bill Napier, 2013-10-01 Der britische Buchhändler Harry Blake wird von einem reichen Lord gebeten ein verschlüsseltes 400 Jahre altes Manuskript zu entschlüsseln. Es scheint sich um ein Tagebuch zu handeln, verfasst von einem Schiffsjungen 1585, begleitete dieser den Abenteurer Sir Walter Raleigh auf einer Expedition in die Karibik. Ihr Ziel: der 77. Grad der Länge. Als sein Auftraggeber ermordet wird, begreift Blake, dass in dem mysteriösen Journal aus der Zeit von Königin Elisabeth I. ein dunkles Geheimnis verborgen sein muss. Gemeinsam mit der Historikerin Zola Khan deckt Blake eine unglaubliche Verschwörung auf.

Pioneers of Cable Television Brian Lockman, Don Sarvey, 2017-10-27 Although there are different opinions about where cable television actually began, a great deal of the ingenuity that developed cable into today's multibillion dollar industry came from Pennsylvania. In this state, with its mountainous geography, the need for an unusual means of obtaining a television signal gave birth to the community antenna television system that was the forerunner of the cable we know today. This volume traces the history of cable television through biographical sketches of those who were instrumental in bringing this technology to rural Pennsylvania. Enumerating technical as well as financial obstacles, each chapter focuses on the life of a cable pioneer. The contributions of such men as John Walson, Bob Tarleton, George Gardner, and Ralph Roberts are discussed, and their relationships to each other examined. Information drawn from interviews with these men or people who knew them brings history to life. Topics include the roots of cable television, problems of early cable systems, and the advent of HBO and its consequences. An appendix offers a commemorative history of the Pennsylvania Cable Network, a joint project of several men discussed herein.

Path of Thorns Jacob A. Neufeld, 2014-01-01 Paths of Thorns is the story of Jacob Abramovich Neufeld, 1895-1960, a prominent Soviet Mennonite leader and writer as well as one of these Mennonites sent to the Gulag.

Milton and the Reformation Aesthetics of the Passion Erin Henriksen, 2009-11-23 Scholarship on Milton's view of God the Father and the Son has focused on the author's theological beliefs. For Milton, these are equally artistic questions, and to address them, this study considers the precedents in Christian art that provide models for portraying the divine within a reformed context. Milton's revision of the passion tradition in his short poems of 1645 and his later epic poems substitutes a living, obedient, and subservient Son in place of late medieval representations of the crucifixion. His alternative passion unfolds through a poetic vocabulary of fragmentation, omission, and restoration, drawing on iconoclasm as an artistic strategy. This study addresses the long-standing question about Milton's avoidance of the crucifixion and contributes to the broader study of his reformed poetics.

Mirrors of Madness: How Asylums Used Reflections to Control and Cure Mark E. Jemy, 2025-10-13 Mirrors of Madness is a historical investigation into the strange and unsettling use of mirrors within the asylums of the 19th and early 20th centuries. The book argues that mirrors in these institutions were not for vanity but were integral parts of a grand, terrifying experiment. It explores how asylum architects and doctors used reflections as tools for control, cure, and a strange form of psychological warfare, from using them for surveillance. The Unblinking Eye to applying them in therapeutic theories like the Narcissus Cure The narrative delves into the patient's experience treating the asylum as a theater of the mind where one's own reflection could become a prison or a path to a fragile cure

The Tampines Tiger and Other Stories Norman Williams & Rex Kearns, 2016-02-08 Here lie the memoirs of Ponsenby who has a great propensity for being in the wrong place at the wrong time thereby seeing hearing and experiencing so much and all with a difference He travels through history and time across vastly differing landscapes and delves into the most mysterious places of all human endeavour beliefs culture and society Ponsenby is a British Indian medic or sawbones as he describes himself a livelihood that perceives both the serious and sombre perspectives on life and always with a wry twist of humour Oh and another place to go contemplation and reflection And a beautiful sadness filled our hearts And because we could not leave it the sadness slowly and inexorably turned into compassion We felt the sorrow of the whole world of little frightened children of the blind the halt and the lame and of those separated from their loved ones

The Creative South Andrea Acri, Peter Sharrock, 2022-04-12 This edited volume programmatically reconsiders the creative contribution of the littoral and insular regions of Maritime Asia to shaping new paradigms in the Buddhist and Hindu art and architecture of the mediaeval Asian world Far from being a mere southern conduit for the maritime circulation of Indic religions in the period from ca the 7th to the 14th century those regions transformed across mainland and island polities the rituals icons and architecture that embodied these religious insights with a dynamism that often eclipsed the established cultural centres in Northern India Central Asia and mainland China This collective body of work brings together new research aiming to recalibrate the importance of these innovations in art and architecture thereby highlighting the cultural creativity of the monsoon influenced Southern rim of the Asian landmass Although Maritime Asia in mediaeval times was not as densely populated as the agrarian hinterland Asia's coasts were highly urbanized The region from southern India to south China was a heterogeneous blend of cultures leavened with a strong interest in trade This cosmopolitan society afforded plentiful opportunities for artists to find patrons and develop individual styles and aesthetic sensibilities In the bustling ports of Asia's south coast rulers sought to embellish their prestige and attract foreign merchants by sponsoring the development of monumental complexes and centres of learning and debate These educational institutions attracted teachers from all over Asia and in their cloisters they developed new intellectual frameworks which were reflected in works of art and architecture Scholars moved frequently by sea influencing and being influenced by other foreigners such as Japanese and central Asians who were also attracted to these places This very variety has hindered scholarly research in the past This volume contributes to the endeavour to show how Maritime Asia was not an incoherent jumble of misunderstood influences from better known civilizations there was a pattern to this creativity which the authors in this collection clarify for us The maritime world of Asia may have lain on the margins of the land but it provided a physical and intellectual medium through which artistic ideas from east and west flowed freely Maritime Asia also made significant original contributions which hold their own with those of the hinterland of the Asian continent Unconstrained by the burden of static hierarchical courts the peoples of Maritime Asia built on the inspiration provided by a hybrid society to demonstrate a high degree of artistic originality while testing but not breaking the link with conventional iconography Professor John Miksic Department of Southeast Asian Studies Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences National University of Singapore NUS The collective objective of this two volume work is to give substance to the oft cited mantra that mediaeval maritime Southeast Asia was as much an innovative contributor to as a recipient in the cultural conversations that took place across the Bay of Bengal and South China Sea In bracketing these studies between the 7th and 14th centuries the editors have drawn into focus two key traditions that are explicated in texts ritual art and architecture and religious landscapes of this period tantric Buddhism and esoteric Shaivism A great strength of these studies is this focus for which the editors are to be commended The chapters contain much that represents significant milestones in building new understanding in the field including overdue recognition of the importance of Southeast Asian esoteric Buddhist practice in shaping Chinese Buddhism Nowhere did the architects of the religious landscape of early Southeast Asia think of themselves as being on the periphery or as outsiders looking in Rather they knowingly imbued their tirthas and sacred centres with the same authority as those in India and created religious edifices that were on occasions beyond India s experience I highly commend this publication to anyone with an interest in bringing a wider lens to the study of Indian esoteric religious practices and to understanding the relationship of early Hindu Buddhist Southeast Asia to the wider Asian world John Guy Senior Curator of South and Southeast Asian Art The Metropolitan Museum of Art New York The Creative South is a rich compendium of scholarship concerning the religious art of Southeast Asia and its ties to India in the period beginning in the 8th century It was a time when merchants were crisscrossing the seas from India to China and when advocates of innovative doctrines and rituals were finding ready support among the rulers of the varied kingdoms From the identification of images embraced by the seafarers to the mysteries of the fire shrines in Cambodian temples from the funerary beliefs of Odisha to the unique character of the Javanese Ramayana these eighteen studies provide fresh understandings of the patterns of reception and innovation Hiram Woodward Mr and Mrs Thomas Quincy Scott Curator of Asian Art Emeritus The Walters Art Museum      Dreamweaver 4 for Windows and Macintosh J.
