Portraits of Places Henry James, 1948 Put Yourself in His Place Charles Reade, 1870 The Place of Many Moods Dipti Khera, 2020-09-29 India retains one of the richest painting traditions in the history of global visual culture, one that both parallels aspects of European traditions and also diverges from it. While European artists venerated the landscape and landscape paintings, it is rare in the Indian tradition to find depictions of landscapes for their sheer beauty and mood without religious or courtly significance. There is one glorious exception: Painters from the city of Udaipur in Northwestern India specialized in depicting places, including the courtly worlds and cities of rajas, sacred landscapes of many gods and bazaars bustling with merchants, pilgrims, and craftsmen. Their court paintings and painted invitation scrolls displayed rich geographic information, notions of territory, and the bhava or feel, emotion, and mood of a place. This is the first book to use artistic representations of place to trace the major aesthetic, intellectual, and political shifts in South Asia over the long eighteenth century. While James Tod, the first British colonial agent based in Udaipur, established the region's reputation as a principality in a state of political and cultural deterioration, author Dipti Khera uses these paintings to suggest a counter narrative of a prosperous region with beautiful and bountiful cities and plentiful rains and lakes. She explores the perspectives of courtly communities, merchants, pilgrims, monks, laypeople, and officers, and the British East India Company's officers explorers and artists Throughout she draws new conclusions about the region s intellectual and artistic practices and its shifts in political authority mobility and urbanity Catalogue of the Illinois state library. Multidisciplinary Approaches to Educational Research Sadaf Rizvi, 2013-06-17. This book provides an original perspective on a range of controversial issues in educational and social research through case studies of multi-disciplinary and mixed-method research involving children, teachers, schools, and communities in Europe and the developing world. These case studies from researchers across continents and across disciplines explore a range of interesting issues, including the relevance of research approaches to very different national settings and to the kinds of questions being asked; the barriers of language and culture between researcher and researched; articulating the thinking and feelings of very young children; the challenges of dealing with partiality of data; issues of identity, subjectivity, and reflexivity; and transferring research approaches from one national setting to the problems posed in another.
