Unlike the first two volumes of ANGLES on the English Speaking World this special issue does not originate in a set of conference papers The idea of compiling a collection of essays on Romanticism emerged from the unusually strong concentration on Romantic studies among the graduate students of the English Department a couple of years ago This volume places their work in the context of distinguished international scholars of greater seniority scholars who have become academic contacts through conferences and assessment committees and whose contributions I am very pleased to be able to include alongside the works of local contributors The Romantic generations of the title of this volume thus strike a number of different chords generations of scholars in Romantic studies conventional divisions of Romantic poets into first second and possibly third generations the self generative aspect of Romanticism the awareness of poetic reputation and the image and afterlife of the poet The collection spans just over a hundred years from the 1780s to the 1890s and while not in any way attempting to define Romanticism or raise issues of periodization the volume allows for the continued existence of Romantic features right until the end of the nineteenth century Poetry looms large in this issue of ANGLES apart from Ian Duncan s essay on Hume Scott and the Rise of Fiction all the other essays are in some way concerned with the Romantic poet and his poetry The Romantic poet is thus represented as a collector and editor of ballads as a political radical and printmaker as other to himself essentially ignorant of the process of poetic composition as a rival and collaborator with other poets or as a poet long dead the subject of successive generations of poetic lament The boundaries between poetry and the visual arts is explored in a couple of the essays indeed the rivalry between portraiture and literature pervades no less than three of the contributions and no matter whether the subject of inquiry is the image of the poet or the image of the poet's mother the Romantic poet displays a high degree of self-consciousness with respect to both literary and visual media Romantic generations generate both selves and others in poetry and portraiture Imagining the Gallery Christopher Kent Rovee, 2006 Reading portraiture as a national rhetoric during the romantic period Imagining the Gallery reveals a pervasive cultural discourse that reflects and propels sociopolitical shifts taking place in late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Britain The Andover Review, 1890 American Portraits, 1800-1850 Rita Feigenbaum, 1972 Using a method similar for that of standard floras this book provides for identification through keys in which the matching of plant characteristics leads to family genus species and common name The manual also indicates habitat flowering dates and degree of rarity Harper's New Monthly Magazine, 1892 The Fortnightly, 1875 The American, 1889 *The Poetical Works of William Wordsworth. Levy, 2008-01-17 This book explores the conjunction of authorship and family life as a distinctive cultural formation of Romantic era Britain It traces an alternative history of Romantic authorship one that lies on the cusp between a vanishing manuscript culture and the dominance of print grappling with an evolving tension between the private and public spheres
