Position To Command Respect Women And The Eleventh Britannica:

A Position to Command Respect Gill Thomas, 1988      A Position to Command Respect Gillian Thomas, 1992-06 The 1910 1911 Encyclopedia Britannica was advertised as the high water mark of human knowledge That 34 of the 1 500 contributors were women was widely perceived as signaling a significant breakthrough into the world of learning The book examines public and private aspects of the women contributors lives and includes short biographies delightful a marvelous encapsulation of a turning point in society and scholarship Well written and engaging from start to finish this work would be a fine addition to already strong women s studies collections CHOICE      Archaeologists in Print Amara Thornton, 2018-06-25 Archaeologists in Print is a history of popular publishing in archaeology in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries a pivotal period of expansion and development in both archaeology and publishing It examines how British archaeologists produced books and popular periodical articles for a non scholarly audience and explores the rise in archaeologists public visibility Notably it analyses women s experiences in archaeology alongside better known male contemporaries as shown in their books and archives In the background of this narrative is the history of Britain s imperial expansion and contraction and the evolution of modern tourism in the Eastern Mediterranean and Middle East Archaeologists exploited these factors to gain public and financial support and interest and build and maintain a reading public for their work supported by the seasonal nature of excavation and tourism Reinforcing these publishing activities through personal appearances in the lecture hall exhibition space and site tour and in new media film radio and television archaeologists shaped public understanding of archaeology It was spadework scripted The image of the archaeologist as adventurous explorer of foreign lands part spy part foreigner eternally alluring solidified during this period That legacy continues undimmed today Praise for Archaeologists in Print This beautifully written book will be valued by all kinds of readers you don t need to be an archaeologist to enjoy the contents which take you through different publishing histories of archaeological texts and the authors who wrote them From the productive partnership of travel guide with archaeological interest to the women who feature so often in the history of archaeological publishing via closer analysis of the impact of John Murray Macmillan and Co and Penguin this volume excavates layers of fascinating facts that reveal much of the wider culture of the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries The prose is clear and the stories compulsive Thornton brings to life a cast of people whose passion for their profession lives again in these pages Warning the final chapter on Archaeological Fictions will fill your to be read list with stacks of new titles to investigate This is a highly readable accessible exploration into the dynamic relationships between academic authors publishers and readers It is in addition an exemplar of how academic research can attract a wide general readership as well as a more specialised one a stellar combination of rigorous scholarship with lucid pacy prose Highly recommended Samantha Rayner Director of UCL Centre for Publishing Deputy Head of Department and Director of Studies Department of Information Studies UCL      Tense Future Paul K.

Saint-Amour, 2015 Tense Future falls into two parts. The first develops a critical account of total war discourse and addresses the resistant potential of acts including acts of writing before a future that looks barred or predetermined by war. Part two shifts the focus to long interwar narratives that pit both their scale and their formal turbulence against total war's portrait of the social totality producing both ripostes and alternatives to that portrait in the practice of literary encyclopedism. The book's introduction grounds both parts in the claim that industrialized warfare particularly the aerial bombing of cities intensifies an underexamined form of collective traumatization, a pretraumatic syndrome in which the anticipation of future conditional violence induces psychic wounds. Situating this claim in relation to other scholarship on critical futurities, Saint-Amour discusses its ramifications for trauma studies, historical narratives generally, and the historiography of the interwar period in particular. The introduction ends with an account of the weak theory of modernism now structuring the field of modernist studies and of weak theory's special suitability for opposing total war that strongest of strong theories. Macmillan's

Magazine, 1859-1907 George John Worth, 2003 In this work, George Worth addresses five principal questions: Where did Macmillan's come from and why in 1859? Who or what was the guiding spirit behind the magazine, especially in its early formative years? What cluster of ideas gave it such coherence? Studies on Voltaire and the Eighteenth Century, 1998

T·L·S, the Times Literary Supplement, 1993 Feminist Periodicals, 1996 The Fin-de-siècle Poem Joseph Bristow, 2005 Featuring innovative research by emergent and established scholars, The Fin de Siècle Poem throws new light on the remarkable diversity of poetry produced at the close of the nineteenth century in England. Opening with a detailed preface that shows why literary historians have frequently underrated fin de siècle poetry, the collection explains how a strikingly rich body of lyrical and narrative poems anticipated many of the developments traditionally attributed to Modernism. Each chapter in turn provides insights into the ways in which late nineteenth-century poets represented their experiences of the city, their attitudes toward sexuality, their responses to empire, and their interest in religious belief. The eleven essays presented by editor Joseph Bristow pay renewed attention to the achievements of such legendary writers as Oscar Wilde, John Davidson, Ernest Dowson, Lionel Johnson, and W. B. Yeats, whose careers have always been associated with the 1890s. This book also explores the lesser-known but equally significant advances made by notable women poets, including Michael Field, Amy Levy, Charlotte Mew, Alice Meynell, A. Mary F. Robinson, and Graham R. Tomson. The Fin de Siècle Poem brings together innovative research on poetry that has been typecast as the attenuated Victorianism that was rejected by Modernism. The contributors underscore the remarkable innovations made in English poetry of the 1880s and 1890s and show how women poets stood shoulder to shoulder with their better-known male contemporaries. Joseph Bristow is professor of English at the University of California, Los Angeles, where he edits the journal Nineteenth Century Literature. His recent books include The Cambridge Companion to Victorian Poetry, Oscar Wilde: Contextual Conditions, and the variorum edition of Oscar Wilde's The Picture of Dorian Gray. Russian and West European Women, 1860-1939 Marcelline J.

Hutton, 2001-08-14 This ambitious study provides a sweeping overview of the position of women in England France Germany and Russia USSR from 1860 1939 The book illustrates their struggles to realize their dreams and their resourcefulness in coping with often dreary hard even horrifying lives Deftly combining statistical data to underscore collective experiences and belles lettres to highlight the texture of individual women's lives the book assesses the significance of gender class nationality and religion This richly researched work traces common patterns and unique experiences in women's lives by showing how they defined themselves coped with daily life and confronted disaster with courage and resourcefulness

Canadian Review of Comparative Literature, 1996      The Darnton Debate Voltaire Foundation, 1998 Ever since Professor Robert Darnton aroused the interest of all Enlightenment scholars with the publication of The High Enlightenment and the Low Life Literature in pre-revolutionary France in 1971 he has been in the forefront of debate about that period and the French Revolution which followed it His work has long been an indispensable study for all those who ponder on the nature and evolution of these great movements By the mid 1990s however it was apparent that Darnton's far-reaching conclusions on the relationship of the Enlightenment to the Revolution together with his historical accounts of printed works and the mentalities of the eighteenth century merited a comprehensive debate on his whole oeuvre The present collection sparks off that debate The contributors to this volume were invited freely to address any particular aspect of Robert Darnton's researches or to discuss the whole thrust of his thinking about the past Darnton readily agreed to this proposal encouraging the editor to send invitations to long-standing critics just as much as to more sympathetic readers The essays collected here respond to the original request in diverse ways Taking up a whole spectrum of positions about Darnton's work they attempt an answer based on deep reflection or assiduous source research or both In a coda to the volume Robert Darnton responds robustly to the various readings of his work In places he seeks to rescue it from what he considers to be false interpretations and to set the record straight But his essay is not just a rebuttal It moves the debate on bringing new insights and information not previously published His conclusion are as flexible open-ended as one could wish and in line with which they have been richly plumbed in his writings The threads running through the various essays are drawn together by a comprehensive index of eighteenth-century persons and writings      Choice Reviews in Women's Studies, 1990-96
