Grossman, 1997-04-24 Many people think of the first three decades of the 20th century as the formative years of Jim Crow or legal segregation a time when African Americans shared in the aspirations and expectations of their fellow citizens but who did so as a people with a unique set of barriers to overcome In the South segregation had become a way of life In the North opportunities for work were hard to come by in the face of a less overt racism Yet even in the face of such discrimination a new generation of African Americans left an indelible mark on the nation and its affairs Luminaries such as Booker T Washington Mary Church Terrell and Marcus Garvey inspired and led thousands of black men and women as they obliterated removed tiptoed around climbed over and even passed through these barriers This is the story of sharecropper Minnie Savage NAACP founder W E B Du Bois and countless others who lived in this time of hope and age of despair It was also a time of movement By the second decade of the 20th century cotton cultivation still employed more black Southerners than any other single activity Encouraged by recruiting efforts and the desire to leave the stifling racial climate in Southern communities approximately 1 5 million African Americans left the rural South during what came to be known as the Great Migration Scores settled in New York s Harlem and Chicago s South Side But thousands also moved to Detroit Gary Cleveland Milwaukee and St Paul as well as Philadelphia Camden Newark and Boston James Grossman s A Chance to Make Good is peopled by the ordinary and the famous the migrants and those who stayed behind Documenting the efforts of individuals and communities to claim a place for themselves in America it narrates the powerful story of black aspirations frustration and determination in the years from 1900 to 1929 Books of 1912- ,1922 Business and Religion in the American 1920s Rolf Lunden,1988-02-11 Addressing a phenomenon that continues to shape our culture today Professor Lunden presents a full length analysis of the relationship between business and religion during the 1920s He examines both the impact of the business mentality on Protestant institutions and values and the effects of religion on business Beginning with a discussion of business and entrepreneurship as determining factors in the development of American society Lunden looks at the position of the Protestant churches vis a vis business He next explores business attitudes toward religion Commenting on the adoption of specific Judeo Christian concepts religion Commenting on the adoption of specific Judeo Christian concepts he describes both how these concepts were applied in a business context and what concessions were made by business when Protestant values came into conflict with those of the commercial world In his final chapter he considers the implications of the business community s appropriation of religious functions and the widespread belief that its mission was linked to the redemption of society Holy Men of the Electromagnetic Age Raphael Cormack,2025-03-11 An international history of the uncanny in the 1920s and 1930s The interwar period was a golden age for the occult Spiritualists clairvoyants fakirs Theosophists mind readers and Jinn summoners all set out to assure the masses that just as newly discovered invisible forces of electricity and magnetism determined the world of science unseen powers commanded an unknown realm of human potential Drawing on untapped sources in Arabic in addition to European ones Raphael Cormack follows two of the most unusual and charismatic figures of this age Tahra Bey who took 1920s Paris by storm in the role of a missionary from the mystical East and Dr Dahesh who transformed Western science to create a panreligious faith of his own in Lebanon Traveling between Paris New York and Beirut while guiding esoteric apprenticeships among miracle working mystics in Egypt and Istanbul these men reflected the desires and anxieties of a troubled age As Cormack demonstrates these forgotten holy men who embodied the allure of the unexplained in a world of dramatic change intuitively speak to our unsettling world today Books of 1921-1925 Chicago Public Library,1927 America's Religions Peter W.
