Crafting Design in Italy Catharine Rossi, 2015

Crafting design in Italy is the first book to examine the role that craft played in the history of post war Italian design one the most celebrated episodes in twentieth century design Craft was vital to the development of design in Italy from 1945 to the 1980s and yet as often as this story has been told it is incomplete Missing is the overlooked but multiple role that craft played as a method of manufacture set of disciplines and traditions materials and ideas This book examines the multiple ways that craft shaped Italian design from 1945 to 1981 It is organised in four chapters each of which focus the different ways that Italy's architects engaged with craft in the context of the bigger socio economic cultural and political changes of the period from the imperatives of post war reconstruction to the explosion in luxury in the economic miracle of the 1960s to the experimentation of Radical Design and the postmodern adventures of Studio Alchimia and Memphis It uses a series of case studies on design areas including product furniture fashion glass and ceramics to bring to light previously unknown makers and objects as well as re examine design icons such as Gio Ponti's Superleggera chair and Ettore Sottsass's Carlton bookcase This project uses the concept of craft to offer a radical re reading of post war Italian design It also sets out to provide a paradigm for using craft based approaches and analysing design and craft's relationship in other cultures and contexts feared Post Modernism a Counter Reformation the reassertion of worldliness fecundity humour and pluralism However more than one tradition emerged and Jencks distinguishing two types of Post Modernism deconstructive and reconstructive demonstrates that the former is often a disguised form of Late Modernism This takes the de creation and nihilism of its parent to extremes The main engine that drives global culture today post modernisation the electronic economy and instant communications network is analysed in its close relation to other posts Post Fordism Post Socialism and the post national world of trading blocs and unstable nations Jencks argues that this may result in catastrophe and global governance or a web of transnational institutions and obligations The most radical idea of this challenging book is the conclusion the notion that the post modern world does not mean the end of metanarratives but something quite different Belief systems are flourishing as never before and Jencks argues a new metanarrative based on the story of the universe and its generative qualities will soon create a new world view that will affect all areas It is a story which grows directly out of the post modern sciences of complexity and is thus both true and mythic Other What is titles include What is Abstraction What is Deconstruction

Towards Post-modernism Michael Collins,1987 Traces the history of modern design looks at furniture pottery glassware clocks and architecture and post modernist movements The New Paradigm in Architecture Charles Jencks,2002-01-01 This book explores the broad issue of Postmodernism and tells the story of the movement that has changed the face of architecture over the last forty years In this completely rewritten edition of his seminal work Charles Jencks brings the history of architecture up to date and shows how demands for a new and complex architecture aided by computer design have led to more convivial sensuous and articulate buildings around the world
