Post-revolutionary Nicaragua G. Thomas LaVanchy, Matthew J. Taylor, Nikolai A. Alvarado, Anna G. Sveinsdóttir, Mariel Aguilar-Støen, 2020-09-25 This book interrogates the impact of tourism on local lives and environments along the southern Pacific Coast of Nicaragua Nicaragua has turned to tourism to earn needed foreign exchange and to provide jobs The unplanned boom however has come with costs to local environments Using an in depth case study of the community of Gigante and nearby tourism developments the chapters delve into the impact of recent unregulated booms in tourism on groundwater household water security local economies culture land ownership and artisanal fisheries Post-revolutionary Nicaragua Forrest D. Colburn, 1986-01-01 Negotiating Love in Post-revolutionary Nicaragua Turid Hagene, 2008 This book explores the issue of love and its place in the reproduction of gender asymmetry in Nicaragua The theme is discussed in the context of specific religious and work practices living arrangements gender values and norms and the gender practices and legislation of the Sandinista revolution The study uses lifeworld phenomenology as its theoretical approach placing people's own experience center stage Therefore a case study of the Esperanza sewing cooperative is presented built on life stories interview materials and participant observation with the cooperative women and their husbands The material and discursive practices and emotional experiences of men and women are examined in this particular socio cultural setting How do we account for the highly unequal bargains the women strike with their husbands accepting large material responsibilities and time share love even if they experience this as emotionally hurtful The study testifies to women's autonomy in family maintenance and religious practices an autonomy which seems to falter in the fields of love and sexuality some of the men and women however negotiate subtle changes in gender norms and values The National Bourgeoisie in

The Nirex Collection: Economy in revolution ,1993 Sandinista Communism and Rural Nicaragua Janusz Bugajski,1990-03-26 In this groundbreaking study Janusz Bugajski evaluates the impact of Sandinista political economic and social programs The book focuses on the confrontations between the regime and Nicaragua s rural population particularly the Ladino peasantry and the Indian and black indigenous minorities of the Atlantic coast region The book concentrates on the Sandinista s agrarian strategies in order to distinguish between short term policies and long term programs It addresses the question of whether any durable and novel ideological political and economic elements have been introduced in Nicaragua in terms of Marxist Leninist models of state socialism especially vis a vis peasantry and the country s ethnic minorities Upon seizing power in July 1979 the Sandinistas embarked on a socialist transformation of Nicaraguan society This book concludes that in confronting major internal and external obstacles the regime opted for a degree of economic flexibility without abandoning its long term political objectives The regime s Leninist political arrangements claims Bugajski were therefore combined with a quasi Communist economic program The Sandinistas captured and remodeled all levers of social control including the state apparatus the armed forces and the security network and fortified those mechanisms that could most effectively extend their domination But in order to minimize economic dislocation political opposition and social unrest to uphold productivity to obtain vital agro export revenues and to prevent international isolation Managua implemented a transitory mixed economy and continued to tolerate a politically weakened private sector World Focus ,1988 Offprint Series University of Texas at Austin.
