National Missile Defense and the Politics of US Identity Natalie Bormann, 2008-12-15 Why adopt a poststructural lens for the reading of the military strategy of national missile defence NMD No doubt when contemplating an attack on US territory by intercontinental ballistic missiles consulting Michel Foucault and critical international relations theory scholars may not seem the obvious route to take The answer to this lies in another question why has there been so much interest and continuous investment in NMD deployment when there is such ambiguity surrounding the status of threat to which it responds controversy over its technological feasibility and concern about its cost. Posed in this manner the question cannot be answered on its own terms; the terms given in official accounts of NMD that justify the system's significance on the basis of strategic feasibility studies and conventional threat predictions guided by worst case scenarios. Instead, this book argues that the preferences leading to NMD deployment must be understood as satisfying requirements beyond strategic approaches and issues. In turning towards the interpretative modes of inquiry provided by critical social theory and poststructuralism, this book contests the conventional wisdom about NMD and suggests reading the strategy in terms of US identity. Presented as an analysis of discourses on threats to national security around which the need for NMD deployment is predominantly framed, this book is an effort to let the two fields of critical international relations theory and US foreign policy speak directly to each other. It seeks to do so by showing how the concept of identity can be harnessed to an analysis of a contemporary military strategic practice.

Review of International Studies, 2005 The Role of Knowledge Communities in Constructing Asia-Pacific Security See Seng Tan, 2007. This study addresses the dearth of critical and/or post-positivist perspectives in security studies of and about the Asia Pacific region. It demonstrates how regional communities of security specialists and intellectuals, including knowledge communities such as ASEAN Institutes of Strategic and International Studies, ASEAN ISIS, and the Council for Security Cooperation in the Asia Pacific (CSCAP), have contributed to just such a state-centric political imaginary at the expense of alternative ideas while promoting and legitimizing their own identities as authorities on regional security.

Remembering and Forgetting 1916 Rebecca Graff-McRae, 2010. Remembering and Forgetting 1916 engages with the diverse, divergent and at times contradictory discourses of commemoration in Ireland. It explores the complex politics of commemoration of four significant events in Irish history: the Easter Rising, the Battle of the Somme, the 1798 Rebellion, and the H Block Hunger Strike. It asks how the commemorations of these events have become incorporated into present politics in the wake of the Good Friday Agreement. The book begins and ends with the Easter Rising. The construction of 1916 as the pivotal moment of Irish history, identity and memory has had lasting consequences for the Irish definition of political conflict and how this is defined through commemoration. In Remembering and Forgetting 1916 it is argued that the ghosts of 1916 are in many ways the ghosts of 1998. This book thus calls forth the ghosts of commemoration and examines how the ghosts of conflict and consensus are used to political ends in the present. Publisher: American Book Publishing Record, 2005.

Hybrid Sovereignty in the Arab Middle East Gokhan Bacik, 2008-07-02. This book provides readers with a fresh analysis of the Arab state by using a new theoretical framework: hybrid sovereignty. Hybrid sovereignty is used as an analytical tool to explain the survival of traditional patterns and forms of authority within the formal modern statehood. The author looks at various issue areas to make his argument: citizenship, the issue of minorities, electoral engineering, the failure of central rule, tribalism, and the lack of impersonal bureaucratic mechanism. He concludes that, based on the problems at state/society level boundaries of statehood, the Arab state can be identified as hybrid sovereign.
