Hengistbury Head, Dorset: The prehistoric and Roman settlement, 3500 BC-AD 500 Barry W. Cunliffe, 1987 British Books in Print ,1978 The Stonehenge Environs Project Julian Richards, 2014-04-15 This report summarises the results of a programme of archaeological investigation carried out between 1980 and 1984 in the immediate vicinity of Stonehenge Whilst the ceremonial and ritual aspects of this landscape had been extensively studied in the past efforts to trace and analyse the character of prehistoric settlement in the area had not been thoroughly pursued The programme's main objective therefore was to identify prehistoric settlements in the area This it was hoped would lead to strategies for their preservation and management Surface collection of finds from a wide area first pinpointed the concentration of prehistoric material and identified areas for more intensive survey both by further fieldwalking and by small scale excavation The project demonstrated that there are traces of considerable Neolithic and Bronze Age domestic and industrial settlement and other activities to add to the framework of funerary and ceremonial monuments which characterise the Stonehenge area The concept of this as a landscape reserved solely for ritual is therefore no longer tenable An Intellectual Adventurer in Archaeology: Reflections on the work of Charles Thomas Andy M Jones, Henrietta Quinnell, 2018-06-30 Charles Thomas 1928-2016 was a Cornishman and archaeologist whose career from the 1950s spanned nearly seven decades This period saw major developments that underpin the structures of archaeology in Britain today in many of which he played a pivotal part

hillforts in southern Britain This is a report of the archaeology of that community from its origins in the late Bronze Age to its eclipse in the Roman Iron Age The archaeological deposits are extensive The ramparts and south western gate structure represents one of the deepest and most complex Iron Age stratigraphic sequences excavated in southern Britain and the survival of preserved surface deposits within the interior yielded a remarkable range of metalworking debris and animal burials Consequently this report contains a wealth of detail concerning the material culture of what had been a rich and powerful Iron Age community and its significantly extends our understanding of the nature of hillfort occupation in southern Britain
