Early Recollections Joseph Cottle,2015 The reminiscences of Bristol bookseller Joseph Cottle 1770 1853 have been described as unreliable but essential The son of a tailor Cottle was an avid reader opening a bookshop in 1791 Three years later he was introduced to Samuel Taylor Coleridge and Robert Southey and became the earliest publisher of their works through them he also knew Wordsworth and published the Lyrical Ballads in 1798 He later fell out with all three men and in 1837 published despite Southey and Coleridge s family attempting to prevent it this quickly notorious two volume work through which Cottle lost an expensive libel case in which he was sued by Hannah More s coachman Ten years later he recast the book as Reminiscences of Samuel Taylor Coleridge and Robert Southey also reissued in this series Both works contain evasions and distortions but are valuable for their account of some vital years in the lives of the great Romantic poets

Islam and the English Enlightenment, 1670-1840 Humberto Garcia,2012-01-30 A corrective addendum to Edward Said s Orientalism this book examines how sympathetic representations of Islam contributed significantly to Protestant Britain s national and imperial identity in the eighteenth century Taking a historical view Humberto Garcia combines a rereading of eighteenth century and Romantic era British literature with original research on Anglo Islamic relations He finds that far from being considered foreign by the era s thinkers Islamic republicanism played a defining role in Radical Enlightenment debates most significantly during the Glorious Revolution French Revolution and other moments of acute constitutional crisis as well as in national and political debates about England and its overseas empire Garcia shows that writers such as Edmund Burke Lady Mary Wortley Montagu Samuel Taylor Coleridge Robert Southey and Percy and Mary Shelley not only were influenced by international events in the Muslim world but also saw in that world and its history a viable path to interrogate contest and redefine British concepts of liberty This deft exploration of the forgotten moment in early modern history when intercultural exchange between the Muslim world and Christian West was common resituates English literary and intellectual history in the wider context of the global eighteenth century The direct challenge it poses to the idea of an exclusionary Judeo Christian Enlightenment serves as an important revision to post 9 11 narratives about a historical clash between Western democratic values and Islam Early Recollections Joseph Cottle,1837 The poetical works of Samuel Taylor Coleridge ed. w. a biographical introd. by James Dykes Campbell Samuel Taylor Coleridge,1893
