Patient X David Peace, 2018-09-04 In these twelve interconnected tales David Peace acclaimed author of the Red Riding Quartet Occupied City and Tokyo Year Zero weaves fact and fiction as he takes up the brief but fiercely lived life of the early twentieth century Japanese writer Ryunosuke Akutagawa Unique and offbeat Patient X delves into Akutagawa's rich and complicated private life his fears and battles with mental illness his complex reaction to the Westernization of Japan his exacting creative process and his suicide weaving these facets into a hauntingly evocative portrait But Patient X is more than a paean to one remarkable writer it is also an incandescent exploration of the act and obsession of writing itself and of the role of the artist in times that darkly mirror our own Inexorable Modernity Hiroshi Nara, 2007-01-01 Beginning in the late Edo period the Japanese faced a rapidly and irreversibly changing world in which industrialization westernization and internationalization were exerting pressure upon an entrenched traditional culture The Japanese themselves felt threatened by Western powers with their sense of superiority and military might Yet the Japanese were more prepared to meet this challenge than was thought at the time and they used a variety of strategies to address the tension between modernity and tradition Inexorable Modernity illuminates our understanding of how Japan has dealt with modernity and of what mechanisms universal and local we can attribute to the mode of negotiation between tradition and modernity in three major forms of art theatre the visual arts and literature Dr Hiroshi Nara brings together a thoughtful collection of essays that demonstrate that traditional and modern approaches to life draw from one another and tradition whether real or created was sought out in order to find a way to live with the burden of modernity Inexorable Modernity is a valuable and enlightening read for those interested in Asian studies and history Book jacket Sino-Japanese Transculturation Richard King, Cody Poulton, Katsuhiko Endo, 2012-01-01 This is a multi author work which examines the cultural dimensions of the relations between East Asia's two great powers China and Japan in a period of change and turmoil from the late nineteenth century to the end of the Second World War This period saw Japanese invasion of China the occupation of China's North east Manchuria and Taiwan and war between the two nations from 1937 1945 the scars of that war are still evident in relations between the two countries today In their quest for modernity the rulers and leading thinkers of China and Japan defined themselves in contradistinction to the other influenced both by traditional bonds of classical culture and by the influx of new Western ideas that flowed through Japan to China The experiences of intellectual and cultural awakening in the two countries were inextricably linked as our studies of poetry fiction philosophy theatre and popular culture demonstrate The chapters explore this process of transculturation the sharing and exchange of ideas and artistic expression not only in Japan and China but in the larger region which Joshua Fogel has called the Sinosphere an area including Korea and parts of Southeast Asia with a shared heritage of Confucian statecraft and values underpinned by the classical Chinese language The authors of the chapters who include established senior academics and younger scholars and employ a range of disciplines and methodologies were selected by the editors for their expertise in particular aspects of this rich and complex cultural relationship. As for the editors Richard King and Cody Poulton are scholars and translators of Chinese literature and Japanese theatre respectively each taking a historical and comparative perspective to the study of their subject. Katsuhiko Endo is an intellectual historian dealing with both Japan and China. Seeing Through Abstraction Anatoly Detwyler, 2025-10-14 During the first half of the twentieth century China saw sweeping changes in the material conditions and practices of communication transforming the volume velocity variety veracity and value of information. Encountering the new abstract matter of information a generation of Chinese writers faced a crisis of literary identity. What made literature distinct from other informational genres such as newspaper columns financial figures and telegrams? How was the emergent information order reshaping individual and social knowledge? And where would literature stand within this new order? This book examines how writers of the Republican era 1912-1949 came to recognize and respond to information. Anatoly Detwyler investigates a wide range of literary and graphic experiments that engaged with different forms of information management including data visualization financial statistics and propaganda science. These works he argues collectively attest to a new perceptibility of abstraction and its epistemological implications for apprehending reality. Tracing this mode of perception across fiction poetry and woodcut art Seeing Through Abstraction offers a revisionist account of the development of modern Chinese literature and repositions it within the global history of the information age. Positions, 2006 Three-Dimensional Reading Angela Yiu, 2013-07-31 A 29th century dystopian society seen through the eyes of a mutant cum romantic poet a post impressionist landscape of orbs and cubes experienced by a wandering underdog an imaginary sick room generated entirely from sounds reaching the ears of an invalid. These and other haunting representations of time and space constitute the Japanese modernist landscape depicted in this volume of stories from the 1910s to the 1930s. The fourteen stories selected for this anthology by both relatively unknown and must read authors experiment with a protean modernist style in the vivacious period between the nation building Meiji and the early years of Showa. The writers capture imaginary temporal and spatial dimensions that embody forms of futuristic urban space colonial space utopia dystopia and heterotopia. Their work invites readers to abandon the conventional naturalistic approach to spatial and temporal representations and explore how the physical and empirical experience of time and space is distorted and reconfigured through the prism of modernist Japanese prose. An introduction and prefatory materials provide historical and critical context for Japanese modernism making Three Dimensional Reading a valuable teaching text not only for the study of modern Japanese literature but for world literature global modernism and utopian studies as well. The volume also includes drawings by contemporary artist Sakaguchi Ky hei whose ability to create a stunning visual reality beyond the borders of time and place is a testament to the power and reverberations of the modernist imagination. Chinese Literature, Essays, Articles, Reviews, 2004 The Asian World, 600-1500 Roger V.
