Shapes Of Philosophical History:

Shapes of Philosophical History Frank Edward Manuel, 1993 In these seven lectures the author looks at the ways in which philosophical historians over the last 2000 years have looked at the nature of man and the shape of human history He identifies two modes of historical perception the cyclical and progressive on the one hand the historical world seen as movement either to a fixed end or to an indefinite end that defines itself in the course of progression history as novelty creating and always variant on the other hand circularity eternal recurrence return to the beginning of things sheer reiteration or similar recapitulation By tracing the development of these two shapes of philosophical history from the onset of the Christian era through to the present the author argues they reveal themselves to be less a logical than a psychological polarity In some periods there may be a weightier commitment to one or the other but neither has dominated the European intellectual field without the presence in some form of its rival

This volume approaches the study of Hegel's History of Philosophy from a variety of angles while centering on Hegel's Berlin Lectures on the History of Philosophy 1819-1831 which were given to students and later published The lectures address most fundamentally what philosophy is the philosophy of philosophy so to speak The contributors treat many significant and topical issues including discussions of Hegel's overall idea of a history of philosophy his treatment of various philosophers and philosophical views from the historical tradition and the role of Hegel's own philosophical system as a culmination in the development of philosophy historically This unique collection provides incisive and provocative analyses on an area of study that until now has not garnered as much attention as it deserves

Background to Friedrich Schiller's Aesthetics of Living Form Leonard P. Wessell, 1982

Schiller defined the object of beauty as living form He explicitly related his thesis to a rationalistic aesthetics of form and to an empiricistic aesthetics of life First the problem of aesthetic theorizing is treated In the light of this discussion respectively the aesthetics of life form and living form are analyzed First the respective ontological universe of each aesthetic theory is developed then the aesthetic universe in terms of ontological commitments and finally the specific interpretation of beauty is outlined      The Art of Discourse: a System of Rhetoric Adapted for Use in Colleges and Academies ...
