Shaping Medieval Landscapes Settlement Society Environment:

Shaping Medieval Landscapes Tom Williamson, 2003 A book which puts the environment back where it belongs at the centre of the historical stage To explain the rich complex patterns in the English landscape today we have to understand how the land was farmed in the medieval period Some regions had large villages with extensive open fields others had scattered hamlets and less communal forms of agriculture These differences are still with us Shaping Medieval Landscapes Tom Williamson, 2004 This is a book which puts the environment back where it belongs at the centre of the historical stage It is essential reading for all those interested in the history of the English landscape social and economic history and the way that life was lived in the medieval countryside Middle Saxon' Settlement and Society: The Changing Rural Communities of Central and Eastern England Duncan Wright, 2015-05-31 This book explores the experiences of rural communities who lived between the seventh and ninth centuries in central and eastern England Combining archaeology with documentary place name and topographic evidences it provides unique insight into social economic and political conditions in Middle Saxon England Castles, Siegeworks and Settlements Duncan W. Wright, Oliver H. Creighton, 2016-11-30 This volume comprises thirteen reports detailing fieldwork undertaken by a research project which sought to assess the archaeological evidence of the period of conflict that took place in mid twelfth century England popularly known as the Anarchy Thorps in a Changing Landscape Paul Cullen, Richard Jones, David N. Parsons, 2011 The authors consider the siting of thorps and throps in relation to the landscape and to soil types in particular Amply demonstrating the value of an interdisciplinary approach to the study of early medieval settlement in England the authors are able to draw important conclusions about the changes in farming that swept the country during this period and by association the process of village nucleation By examining both the chronology of place names in thorp and throp and their qualifying elements notably the presence or absence of personal names it appears possible to chart both the speed at which arable enterprises farmed in severalty converted to communal cultivation as well as the direction in which the changes spread There is a sense of real excitement as many fresh insights are revealed in the course of the book P 4 of cover An Environmental History of

Wildlife in England 1650 - 1950 Tom Williamson, 2013-12-05 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2014 While few detailed surveys of fauna or flora exist in England from the period before the nineteenth century it is possible to combine the evidence of historical sources ranging from game books diaries churchwardens accounts and even folk songs and our wider knowledge of past land use and landscape with contemporary analyses made by modern natural scientists in order to model the situation at various times and places in the more remote past This timely volume encompasses both rural and urban environments from 1650 to the mid twentieth century drawing on a wide variety of social historical and ecological sources It examines the impact of social and economic organisation on the English landscape biodiversity the agricultural revolution landed estates the coming of large scale industry and the growth of towns and suburbs It also develops an original perspective on the complexity and ambiguity of man animal relationships in this post medieval period The Landscape Archaeology of Anglo-Saxon England N. J. Higham, Martin J. Ryan, 2010 The Anglo Saxon period was crucial to the development of the English landscape but is rarely studied The essays here provide radical new interpretations of its development Traditional opinion has perceived the Anglo Saxons as creating an entirely new landscape from scratch in the fifth and sixth centuries AD cutting down woodland and bringing with them the practice of open field agriculture and establishing villages Whilst recent scholarship has proved this simplistic picture wanting it has also raised many questions about the nature of landscape development at the time the changing nature of systems of land management and strategies for settlement The papers here seek to shed new light on these complex issues Taking a variety of different approaches and with topics ranging from the impact of coppicing to medieval field systems from the representation of the landscape in manuscripts to cereal production and the type of bread the population preferred they offer striking new approaches to the central issues of landscape change across the seven centuries of Anglo Saxon England a period surely foundational to the rural landscape of today NICHOLAS J HIGHAM is Professor of Early Medieval and Landscape History at the University of Manchester MARTIN J RYAN lectures in Medieval History at the University of Manchester Contributors Nicholas J Higham Christopher Grocock Stephen Rippon Stuart Brookes Carenza Lewis Susan Oosthuizen Tom Williamson Catherine Karkov David Hill Debby Banham Richard Hoggett Peter Murphy A Social History of England, 900-1200 Julia Crick, Elisabeth van Houts, 2011-04-21 The years between 900 and 1200 saw transformative social change in Europe including the creation of extensive town dwelling populations and the proliferation of feudalised elites and bureaucratic monarchies In England these developments were complicated and accelerated by repeated episodes of invasion migration and changes of regime In this book scholars from disciplines including history archaeology and literature reflect on the major trends which shaped English society in these years of transition and select key themes which encapsulate the period The authors explore the landscape of England its mineral wealth its towns and rural life the health behaviour and obligations of its inhabitants patterns of spiritual and intellectual life and the polyglot nature of its population and culture What emerges is an insight into the complexity diversity and richness of this formative period of English history Landscape, Settlement and Society in Roman and Early Medieval Wiltshire Simon Draper, 2006 Landscape Settlement and Society in Roman and Early Medieval Wiltshire

Peasant Perceptions of Landscape Stephen Miles, Stuart Brookes, 2021-11-04 Peasant Perceptions of Landscape marks a change in the discipline of landscape history as well as making a major contribution to the history of everyday life Until now there has been no sustained analysis of how ordinary medieval and early modern people experienced and perceived their material environment and constructed their identities in relation to the places where they lived This volume provides exactly such an analysis by examining peasant perceptions in one geographical area over the long period from AD 500 to 1650 The study takes as its focus Ewelme hundred a well documented and archaeologically rich area of lowland vale and hilly Chiltern wood pasture comprising fourteen ancient parishes The analysis draws on a range of sources including legal depositions and thousands of field names and bynames preserved in largely unpublished deeds and manorial documents Archaeology makes a major contribution particularly for understanding the period before 900 but more generally in reconstructing the fabric of villages and the framework for inhabitants spatial practices and experiences In its focus on the way inhabitants interacted with the landscape in which they worked prayed and socialised Peasant Perceptions of Landscape supplies a new history of the lives and attitudes of the bulk of the rural population who so seldom make their mark in traditional landscape analysis or documentary history Siedlungsforschung ,2005 Pattern and Process in the

Material Culture of Anglo-Saxon Non-elite Rural Settlements Hana Lewis,2019 UCL Institute of Archaeology PhD Series Volume 1 The research presented in this book advances scholarship on Anglo Saxon non elite rural settlements through the analysis of material culture Forty four non elite sites and the high status site of Staunch Meadow occupied throughout the Anglo Saxon period c 5th 11th centuries and geographically representative of Anglo Saxon settlement in England were selected for study Comparative analyses of the material culture assemblages and settlement data from these sites were evaluated from four main research perspectives the archaeological contexts and distributional patterns of material culture at the sites the range and character of material culture patterns of material culture consumption and material culture as evidence for the economic reach of rural settlements Medieval Villages in an English Landscape Richard

Jones,Mark Page,2006 The village one of the keystones of the English rural landscape has a powerful hold on the imagination This book is the result of the Whittlewood project addresses a key problem for historians the origin of nucleated dispersed settlements It is useful for scholars students enthusiasts of English landscape history Towns and Local Communities in Medieval and Early Modern England David Michael Palliser,2006 David Palliser focuses here on towns in England in the centuries between the Norman Conquest and the Tudor period on which he is an acknowledged authority Urban topography archaeology economy society and politics are all reviewed and particular attention is given to relationships between towns and the Crown to the evidence for migration into towns and to the vexed question of urban fortunes in the 15th and 16th centuries The collection includes two hitherto unpublished studies and is introduced and put in context by a new survey of English towns from the 7th to the 16th centuries Historic Landscape Analysis Stephen Rippon,Jo

Clark,2004 This new book in the series of Practical Handbooks from the Council for British Archaeology tackles the subject of the historic landscape In it Stephen Rippon reveals the techniques that can and have been used to analyse the history of the countryside accompanied by a series of case studies The book is a guide to local and regional variation in the countryside and the approaches and methods used to reach an understanding of it as well as a discussion of how and why certain patterns have emerged Physical components of the landscape such as settlement patterns field systems woodland and open water are discussed along with more conceptual issues for example exchange and trade status and power designed or ornamental landscapes and the importance of a sense of place Case studies from Dartmoor Essex Somerset Lancashire and Cornwall illustrate the points clearly and succinctly showing historical landscape analysis in action Inhabiting the Landscape Nicola Whyte, 2009 The discipline of landscape history has recently taken a new turn away from the analysis of past land use and environments towards an understanding of landscape as a social construct This book is a significant step along this exciting new road Focusing on Norfolk in the post medieval centuries Nicola Whyte recaptures the essential character of ordinary people's experience of landscape She shows how perceptions were deeply rooted in the comprehension of material antiquities the annual round of work public events and religious ritual and the complex web of rights and jurisdictions mapped out in the fields People valued and gave meaning to the landscape for a wide range of reasons many of them unconnected with the economic potential of the land Landscape features outside the confines of the church and the graveyard pilgrimage routes crosses wells and springs played an important part in the ideological shift of the Reformation Parish boundaries and in particular the annual ritual of beating the bounds at Rogationtide reveal much about the shifting pattern of local allegiances and competition over resources Places of execution and the graves of suicides were mnemonic spectacles defining both geographical and behavioural limits The local history of enclosure and rights to commons is the story of nascent capitalism in rural England a clash of values between modern productivity and ancient tradition that involved the reinterpretation and renegotiation of the past Informed by the latest archaeological theory this book shows how landscape development was a dynamic experiential process in which world views changed as well as woods hedges and fields

Landscape History, 2006 The Forest, Park and Palace of Clarendon, c. 1200-c. 1650 Amanda Richardson, 2005 Reconstructing an actual conceptual and documented Wiltshire landscape The main argument of this thesis is that the landscape and locality of Clarendon Forest and Park some 6 km east of Salisbury Wiltshire England were strongly influenced by the presence or later absence of Clarendon Palace which fell into decay in the late fifteenth century The first sure evidence of a royal residence at Clarendon dates from the reign of Henry I 1100-1135 although the site may well have Saxon connections A primary aim of this work is to restore the wider conceptual landscape by considering the forest alongside the relict landscape of the park and it is argued throughout that because medieval forests are archaeologically elusive the best way to achieve this is through an intensive documentary methodology Attention is drawn throughout to the capacity of documents to illustrate how estates were managed over time The argument representing an unprecedented systematic study of manuscript sources for Clarendon Park and Forest held at central and regional record offices is supported by references to printed primary sources It has resulted in the compilation of a main computer database listing over 800 relevant documents held at the Public Record Office alone from which those that might prove most useful were selected and transcribed The transcriptions arranged by subject form several substantial and searchable electronic databases facilitating cross checking and comparison The written sources themselves have informed the structure of the work and help to illustrate that this unique landscape and locality was indeed profoundly influenced by the existence of a royal park and palace at its centre Nevertheless what has emerged strongly in the course of the study are the myriad ways in which the forest in turn shaped the lifecycle of the palace Antiquity Osbert Guy Stanhope Crawford,1999 Includes section Reviews The Shapwick Project, Somerset Christopher M. Gerrard,Michael Aston,2007 Accompanying CD ROM contains appendices CD ROM label
