Solipsism, Physical Things and Personal Perceptual Space Safak Ural, 2019-09-30 Solipsism indicates an epistemological position that denies the existence of others by asserting that the self is the only thing that can be known to exist For sophist philosophers the belief that we can not know anything and even if we do so we cannot communicate it is central to this theory However until now there has been little academic scholarship that has tried to provide answers to the pressing issues raised by solipsism In Solipsist Ontology Physical Things and Personal Perceptual Space Ural aims to redefine solipsism by analyzing and elaborating on traditional philosophical problems such as empiricism and rationalism as well as discussing problems of language communication and meaning Ural reveals where solipsism has been previously ignored pseudo problems have arisen that disguise the sources of the problems with prejudices that concern the philosophical problems in question Notably many current as well as traditional problems of ontology epistemology and language are bound up in discourses of solipsism Ural argues that discarding solipsism as a philosophical discourse hinders new interpretations of traditional philosophical thought This book offers a fresh perspective to solipsism by defining it in relation to concepts such as physical things personal perceptual space and identity Importantly Ural proposes that an understanding of identity is not necessary in order to redefine solipsism By building a logical system that fashions communication and solipsism as interrelated it is possible to reject identity as a useless concept and thus overcome the classic solipsist dilemma of we are not able to communicate This original piece of research is an important and timely contribution to the field of philosophy that will be of great interest to teachers researchers and students
