I-writing Karen Surman Paley, 2001 In this ethnographic study of the teaching of writing Karen Surman Paley reveals the social significance of first person writing and the limitations of a popular taxonomy of composition studies Paley looks critically at the way social constructionists have created an Other in the field of composition studies and named it expressivist Paley demonstrates the complexity of approaches to teaching writing through an ethnographic study of two composition faculty at Boston College a program that some would say is expressivist She prompts her colleagues to consider how family experiences shape the way students feel about and treat people of races religions genders and sexual preferences other than their own Finally she suggests to the field of composition that practitioners spend less time shoring up taxonomies of the field and more time sharing pedagogies

Using Tension as a Resource Heidi L. Hallman, Kristen Pastore-Capuana, Donna L. Pasternak, 2019-04-16 This book focuses on the tensions that emerge in teaching the English language arts methods course within teacher education programs The book features chapters that grapple with the historical legacies of influence on methods pedagogy as well as contemporary challenges in teaching methods courses alongside field experiences Multiple perspectives from those involved in teaching methods courses within English language arts teacher education programs are presented as a way to dialogue about current and future challenges Dialogue is sustained throughout the book as each chapter includes an adjacent response that prompts readers to ask further questions about the chapter's content Content with the chapters in the book focus on describing a tension or dilemma that the author faced when teaching the middle secondary ELA methods course or adjacent field experience Discussion in the chapters responses highlights the importance of the field's history and its present response to the tension featured This book will be a useful resource to teacher educators who wish to investigate new approaches to dilemmas faced in teaching the methods class to pre service teachers

Ecofeminist Literary Criticism Greta Claire Gaard, Patrick D. Murphy, 1998 Ecofeminist Literary Criticism is the first collection of its kind a diverse anthology that explores both how ecofeminism can enrich literary criticism and how literary criticism can contribute to ecofeminist theory and activism Ecofeminism is a practical movement for social change that discerns interconnections among all forms of oppression the exploitation of nature the oppression of women class exploitation racism colonialism Against binary divisions such as self other culture nature man woman humans animals and white non white ecofeminist theory asserts that human identity is shaped by more fluid relationships and by an acknowledgment of both connection and difference Once considered the province of philosophy and women s studies ecofeminism in recent years has been incorporated into a broader spectrum of academic discourse Ecofeminist Literary Criticism assembles some of the most insightful advocates of this perspective to illuminate ecofeminism as a valuable component of literary criticism Mainstreaming Basic Writers Gerri McNenny, Sallyanne H. Fitzgerald, 2001-06 Explores the many facets of the mainstreaming movement in college level basic writing that are currently being debated Examines the theoretical political pedagogical concerns that arise as pressures push colleges to eliminate basic writing programs Race in the College Classroom Maureen T. Reddy, Bonnie TuSmith, 2002 Winner of the 2003 American Educational Studies Association Critics Choice Awards Winner of the 2003 Gustavus Myers Outstanding Book Award Did affirmative action programs solve the problem of race on American college campuses as several recent books would have us believe If so why does talking about race in anything more than a superficial way make so many students uncomfortable Written by college instructors from many disciplines this volume of essays takes a bold first step toward a nationwide conversation Each of the twenty nine contributors addresses one central question what are the challenges facing a college professor who believes that teaching responsibly requires an honest and searching examination of race Professors from the humanities social sciences sciences and education consider topics such as how the classroom environment is structured by race the temptation to retreat from challenging students when faced with possible reprisals in the form of complaints or negative evaluations the implications of using standardized evaluations in faculty tenure and promotion when the course subject is intimately connected with race and the varying ways in which white faculty and faculty of color are impacted by teaching about race Profession 2011 Rosemary G. Gephardt,2011-07-16 Lance Massey and Richard Gebhardt offer in this collection many signs that composition again faces a moment of precariousness even as it did in the 1980s the years of the great divorce from literary studies The contours of writing in the university again are rapidly changing making the objects of scholarship in composition again unstable Composition is poised to move not from modern to postmodern but from process to postprocess from a service oriented field to a research driven discipline Some would say we are already there Momentum is building to replace composition and the pedagogical imperative long implied in that term with a writing studies model devoted to the study of composition as a fundamental tool of and force within all areas of human activity Appropriately contributors here use Stephen M North s 1987 book The Making of Knowledge in Composition to frame and background their discussion as they look at both the present state of the field and its potential futures As in North s volume The Changing of Knowledge in Composition describes a body of research and pedagogy brimming with conflicting claims methodologies and politics and with little consensus regarding the proper subjects and modes of inquiry The deep ambivalence within the field itself is evident in this collection Contributors here envision composition both as retaining its commitment to broad based generalized writing instruction and as heading toward content based vertical writing programs in departments and programs of writing studies They both challenge and affirm composition s pedagogical heritage And they sound both sanguine and pessimistic notes about composition s future Letters for the Living Michael Blitz,C. Mark Hurlbert,1998 This book takes up issues of violence in the lives of college students and looks for possibilities of teaching composition as an act of peace making Through a variety of writings the book illustrates students experiences on the city streets of New York and in the small mining and steel towns of western Pennsylvania One section of the book reports on a project that linked one author educator s Hurlbert research writing class and the other author educator s Blitz freshman composition II class In the semester long project the classes researched and wrote about their own neighborhoods and the neighborhoods of their interstate partners The book states that these two groups of students taught each other about the places in which they live and the ways in which they live there and in many cases what each learned about the other was shocking It also shares with the reader letters in which the two author educators reflect upon their work as teachers in an effort to understand the personal and cultural implications of what students write and say Contains 101 references NKA
