Sharing A Of Prose And Poetry:

Shared Margins Samuli Schielke, Mukhtar Saad Shehata, 2021-07-05 Shared Margins tells of writers writing and literary milieus in Alexandria Egypt's second city. It de-centres cosmopolitan avant-gardes and secular revolutionary aesthetics that have been intensively documented and studied since 2011. Instead, it offers a fieldwork-based account of various milieus and styles and their common grounds and lines of division. Structured in two parts, Shared Margins gives an account of literature as a social practice embedded in milieus that at once enable and limit literary imagination and of a life-worldly experience of plurality in absence of pluralism that marks literary engagements with the intimate and social realities of Alexandria after 2011. Literary writing, this book argues, has marginality as an at once enabling and limiting condition. It provides shared spaces of imaginary excess that may go beyond the taken-for-granted of a societal milieu and yet are never unlimited. Literary imagination is part and parcel of such social conflicts and transformations, its role being neither one of resistance against power nor of guidance towards norms but rather one of open-ended complicity.

Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice

Anne Caldwell, Oz Hardwick, 2022-06-01 Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice vigorously engages with the Why and the How of prose poetry, a form that is currently enjoying a surge in popularity. With contributions by both practitioners and academics, this volume seeks to explore how its distinctive properties guide both writer and reader and to address why this form is so well suited to the early twenty-first century. With discussion of both classic and less well-known writers, the essays both illuminate prose poetry's distinctive features and explore how this outsider form can offer a unique way of viewing and describing the uncertainties and instabilities which shape our identities and our relationships with our surroundings in the early twenty-first century. Combining insights on the theory and practice of prose poetry, Prose Poetry in Theory and Practice offers a timely and valuable contribution to the development of the form and its appreciation amongst practitioners and scholars alike. Largely approached from a practitioner perspective, this collection provides vivid snapshots of contemporary debates within the prose poetry field while actively contributing to the poetics and craft of the form.

In the Land We

Shared, 1988 Two Angels Sharing Alan M. Toback, Mary Toback, Angela Stevenson-Ringo, 2014-04-20 My most important place is not on a travel map; it is not a destination I travel to arrive at but rather it is a destination found within me, my imagination. It has become my second home, my next endeavor in life and a new career. Within my imagination, I have found a new world in creative writing. My eyes and mind now see everything around me; the places I go, often just ordinary to most people, take on a mystery or warmth never before seen by me. Every encounter with other people becomes an interesting subject, a mystery to delve into, a promising subject of a story yet to be written. When I travel in my mind to the destinations of my past life or contemplate on the new places in my life today, I often find a poem there or a possible story and one day, maybe even a novel. Reading the pages of this book, I invite you to join the journey into my imagination.

Their Fair Share identifies and contextualises many previously unknown critical writings by a selection of well known turn of the century women. It reveals the networks behind an influential journal like the Athenaeum and presents a more shaded assessment of its position in the field of cultural production in the period 1870-1920. The Athenaeum 1828-1921 has often been presented as a monolithic institution offering its readers a fairly conservative male oriented appreciation of a wide variety of contemporary publications. On the basis of archival and biographical material this book presents an entirely new analysis of the reviewing policy of this weekly from 1870 when it came into the hands of the politician Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke up to and including 1919-1920 when John Middleton Murry became its editor. Dilke and his editor Norman MacColl are here revealed to have been committed feminists who enlisted some of the most influential women of their time as critics for their journal. The book looks more specifically at the contributions by a.o. Millicent Garrett Fawcett, Emilia Dilke, Jane Harrison and Augusta Webster. Education as a Science Alexander Bain, 1879 Education as a Science Bain, 1880 Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1897
