Towards Knowledge Societies Jérôme Bindé, Unesco, 2005 Urges governments to expand quality education for all increase community access to information and communication technology and improve cross border scientific knowledge sharing in an effort to narrow the digital and knowledge divides between the North and South and move towards a smart form of sustainable human development From Envisioning to Designing E-development Nagy K. Hanna, Nagy Hanna, 2007

This publication examines the preparation and design of the e Sri Lanka development programme a World Bank funded programme in Sri Lanka to invest in the necessary IT resources and infrastructure to enable it to join the global knowledge economy Topics discussed include the collaborative nature of the programme and the role of key stakeholders guiding principles and how funding was secured the strategic context developing the capacity of the ICT industry and human resources including the software and information services sector and the capacity building and industry promotion fund and the strategy to extend access to services including policy and regulatory reforms The Poverty Reduction Strategy

Initiative William G. Battaile, Steve Kayizzi-Mugerwa, World Bank. Operations Evaluation Department, International Monetary Fund. Independent Evaluation Office, 2005 This book provides an independent assessment of the Poverty Reduction Strategy Initiative for the World Bank as well as the broader development community It offers a in depth review of the progress thus far with particular focus on the role and effectiveness of the Bank s support drawing from extensive discussions with national stakeholders in Poverty Reduction Strategy PRSP countries research and analytical work and country case study reports on ten PRSP countries Albania Cambodia Ethiopia Guinea Mauritania Mozambique Nicaragua Tajikistan Tanzania and Vietnam The author of The Poverty Reduction Strategy Initiative concludes that the Initiative has led to improvements in national strategies and processes in some low income countries such as an increased poverty focus a higher profile for monitoring results and better donor government dialogue However the contribution to broad poverty reduction especially in more difficult country environments is largely in jeopardy without significant changes The author argues that the Initiative should be reoriented toward improving domestic processes and less on completion of documents customizing the approach to particular country circumstances filling analytical gaps to better understand which actions will provide the greatest poverty pay off and making sure the assistance programs of external partners are anchored in the country's poverty reduction strategy

Assessing World Bank Support for Trade, 1987-2004 Yvonne M. Tsikata, 2006 This evaluation of the Bank's assistance on trade related issues focuses on the period between fiscal years 1987 and 2004 The majority of developing countries have significantly improved their environment for trade and economic growth following over two decades of assistance from the Bank in trade reform Arguably the developing world is more open today than at any time in recent memory Developing countries have more than doubled their exports since the mid 1980s helping many of them to grow steadily Exports and imports have risen as a share of the gross domestic product GDP across a wide range of countries fueled in part by China's remarkable trade performance and the growth in services trade Trade policies have also been significantly liberalized Average import tariffs have fallen steadily over the period although the fall in other forms of protection has been more gradual Between fiscal years 1987 and 2004 about 81 percent of total Bank commitments went to 117 countries to help them better integrate into the global economy This financing has been accompanied by a large volume of analysis in operational economic and sector work ESW research publications on trade and working papers on trade related topics During the first phase starting in the 1980s the Bank focused largely on the traditional trade agenda related to opening up economies During the second phase from the mid to late 1990s the Bank's emphasis on trade declined although the impact of earlier trade reforms was still playing out In the third phase initiated with the collapse of the World Trade Organization WTO Seattle trade ministerial meeting in 1999 growing pressure to deliver on the Millennium Development Goals MDG and interest from development partners notably bilateral donors led the Bank to reappraise its trade activities This phase has focused on the global trading system and behind the border barriers to trade The Bank's trade activities during the period were led by a trade policy reform package supported by four components import related export related exchange rate and foreign exchange management and industrial and other supporting policies This assessment reviews project related outcomes and outputs to focus on the progress toward a more development friendly trading Recommendations include addressing poverty distributional outcomes and external shocks in a balanced approach revisiting the balance between global and country agendas and strengthening operational links on trade issues and strengthening knowledge management efforts
