Enterobacter Sakazakii and Other Microorganisms in Powdered Infant Formula World Health Organization, 2004
Consistent with the need to provide safe feeding for all infants FAO and WHO jointly convened an expert meeting on Enterobacter sakazakii and other microorganisms in powdered infant formula Geneva 2 to 5 February 2004 The workshop was organized in response to a specific request to FAO WHO for scientific advice from the Codex Committee on Food Hygiene to provide input for the revision of the Recommended International Code of Hygienic Practice for Foods for Infants and Children After reviewing the available scientific information the expert meeting concluded that intrinsic contamination of powdered infant formula with Enterobacter sakazakii and Salmonella has been a cause of infection and illness in infants including severe disease which can lead to serious developmental sequelae and death This report co published with WHO looks at a range of control strategies during both manufacture and subsequent use of powdered infant formula that may be implemented to minimize the risk

Risk Assessment of Listeria Monocytogenes in Ready-to-eat Foods, 2004 Cases of listeriosis appear to be predominantly associated with ready to eat products FAO and WHO have undertaken a risk assessment of Listeria monocytogenes in ready to eat foods prepared and reviewed by an international team of scientists Input was received from several international fora including expert consultations and Codex Alimentarius committee meetings as well as via public and peer review This technical report provides complete documentation of the risk assessment the approaches taken the data and methodology used and the results It also contains four example assessments addressing the risk of listeriosis associated with fresh milk ice cream fermented meats and cold smoked fish These products were selected to represent typical classes of ready to eat products
