Brandscapes Anna Klingmann, 2010-09-24 Architecture as imprint as brand as the new media of transformation of places communities corporations and people In the twenty first century we must learn to look at cities not as skylines but as brandscapes and at buildings not as objects but as advertisements and destinations In the experience economy experience itself has become the product we're no longer consuming objects but sensations even lifestyles In the new environment of brandscapes buildings are not about where we work and live but who we imagine ourselves to be In Brandscapes Anna Klingmann looks critically at the controversial practice of branding by examining its benefits and considering the damage it may do Klingmann argues that architecture can use the concepts and methods of branding not as a quick and easy selling tool for architects but as a strategic tool for economic and cultural transformation Branding in architecture means the expression of identity whether of an enterprise or a city New York Bilbao and Shanghai have used architecture to enhance their images generate economic growth and elevate their positions in the global village Klingmann looks at different kinds of brandscaping today from Disneyland Las Vegas and Times Square prototypes and case studies in branding to Prada s superstar architect designed shopping epicenters and the banalities of Niketown But beyond outlining the status quo Klingmann also alerts us to the dangers of brandscapes By favoring the creation of signature buildings over more comprehensive urban interventions and by severing their identity from the complexity of the social fabric Klingmann argues today s brandscapes have in many cases resulted in a culture of the copy As experiences become more and more commodified and the global landscape progressively more homogenized it falls to architects to infuse an ever more aseptic landscape with meaningful transformations How can architects use branding as a means to differentiate places from the inside out and not as current development practices seem to dictate from the outside in When architecture brings together ecology economics and social well being to help people and places regain self sufficiency writes Klingmann it can be a catalyst for cultural and economic transformation
