The world according to zebrafish: How neural circuits generate behaviour Gonzalo G. De Polavieja, German Sumbre, 2014-11-07 Understanding how the brain functions is one of the most ambitious current scientific goals This challenge will only be accomplished by a multidisciplinary approach involving genetics molecular biology optics ethology neurobiology and mathematics and using tractable model systems The zebrafish larva is a transparent genetically tractable small vertebrate ideal for the combination state of the art imaging techniques e.g. two photon scanning microscopy single plane illumination microscopy spatial light modulator microscopy and lightfield microscopy bioluminescence and optogenetics to monitor and manipulate neuronal activity from single specific neurons up to the entire brain in an intact behaving organism Furthermore the zebrafish model offers large and increasing collection of mutant and transgenic lines modelling human brain diseases With these advantages in hand the zebrafish larva became in the recent years a novel animal model to study neuronal circuits and behaviour taking us closer than ever before to understand how the brain controls behaviour
