Saskatchewan's Communities In The 21st Century From Places To Regions:

Saskatchewan's Communities in the 21st Century Jack C. Stabler, Margaret Rose Olfert, University of Regina. Canadian Plains Research Center, 2002 This report traces the evolution of Saskatchewan's trade centre system for the 40 years between 1961-2001. For assessing/classifying communities into functional categories 68 variables are used. In assessing a community's status/future prospects the systematic trade centre relationships, the demand thresholds required to support trade/service activities and the impact of non-systematic events such as the establishment of a manufacturing plant or mine are taken into account. The relationship between infrastructure/economic development is also discussed. The events summarized emphasize a continuous extension of the geographic framework within which people journey to work/shop, attend school, obtain health care and in general live their everyday lives. In this process the concept of community as a functional entity has evolved from village or town to a region large enough to satisfy the everyday requirements of rural dwellers.

The Regional Geography of Canada Robert M. Bone, 2005. The Regional Geography of Canada divides Canada into six geographic regions: Ontario, Quebec, British Columbia, Western Canada, Atlantic Canada, and the Territories. Each region has a particular regional geography, history, population, and a unique location. These factors have determined each region's character, set the direction for its development, and created a sense of place. In examining these themes, this text underscores the dynamic nature of Canada's regional geography.

Saskatchewan Bernard D. Thraves, 2007. Saskatchewan Geographic Perspectives is Saskatchewan's first comprehensive geography textbook. Its major sections cover these themes: Physical Geography, Historical and Cultural Geography, Population and Settlement, and Economic Geography. Eighteen chapters provide an excellent overview of the province from a variety of geographic perspectives, while twenty-nine focus studies explore specific topics in depth. Presents the work of forty-three scholars and is well illustrated with more than 150 figures, 70 tables, and over 60 full-colour plates. It also includes full reference lists and a comprehensive index. Although prepared specifically for use in post-secondary geography programs, this book is also appropriate for high school research projects and for anyone interested in the many facets of this vast and varied province. Canadian Cities in Transition Trudi E. Bunting, Pierre Filion, 2006. This collection of articles includes the work of newer/younger urban scholars. There are new chapters on Canadian perspectives on globalization and world city growth, immigration and urban change, and many extensively re-written chapters from the previous edition.

Changing Prairie Landscapes Patrick Douaud, Todd A. Radenbaugh, 2000. Landscapes of the Northern Great Plains have been constantly changing but never so rapidly as under modern conditions of economic affluence and technological development. This change is multifaceted and has an impact not only on the fabric of culture and its perception of landscape but also on the ecology and physical landforms. Multidisciplinary research has therefore become an important tool in identifying the influences that human activities have not only on cultural landscapes but on biophysical ones as well This collection of articles originating in a conference held at the Royal Saskatchewan Museum in April 2000 focuses on just such an integration of research concerning the Great Plains of North America and involving the disciplines of geology archaeology biology geography sociology and agriculture Educational Challenges in the World Community of the

Substantial numbers of Romanian immigrants came to Canada just after the turn of the century and many of these early immigrants settled in Saskatchewan The Saskatchewan Romanians reconstructed their homeland culture as best they could on the prairies and preserved their ethnicity until recently With the preservation of the culture came adaptation to the new setting and this adaptation has modified the homeland culture and gradually diminished it With rural urban migration and the emergence of the fourth generation of Romanian Canadians assimilation is taking place This book is an analysis of the forces of assimilation affecting Romanian immigrants to Saskatchewan from the turn of the century to the present
