Design Issues in Rural Finance Orlando J. Sacay, Bikki K. Randhawa, 1995-01-01 World Bank Discussion Paper No 291 Discusses the major issues associated with transforming and improving payment systems in emerging market economies Economic activity requires a system of payments to facilitate trade and exchange between consumers and suppliers of products and services This paper looks at the differences between payment systems in centrally planned and market economies The authors examine both short and long term methods of improving payment systems Distinctions between the various payment instruments are made and the roles of country size banking structure and institutional framework are discussed An appendix provides a summary checklist of information needed to plan adequately for changes in payment systems

Securing the Harvest Joseph DeVries, Gary H. Toenniessen, 2001 Improved food security led by increased productivity among Africa's many small scale farmers has been the aim of significant national and international effort in recent decades It has proved to be one of the most critical challenges facing humankind This book grew out of a two year exploration conducted by the food security theme of The Rockefeller Foundation focusing on the potential for crop genetic improvement to contribute to food security among rural populations in Africa It provides a critical assessment of the ways in which recent breakthroughs in biotechnology participatory plant breeding and seed systems can be broadly employed in developing and delivering more productive crop varieties in Africa's diverse agricultural environments It also presents an analysis of current plant breeding and biotechnology strategies for the key crops in Africa including maize sorghum cowpea rice and cassava The book will appeal to plant breeders biotechnologists and seed distributors as well as policy makers in the area of agricultural development

Grameen Bank Shahidur R. Khandker, M. A. Baqui Khalily, Zahed H. Khan, 1995-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 295 The progress made by the countries of Central and Eastern Europe in privatizing state owned enterprises has created millions of new shareholders But for the citizenry to buy and sell shares these countries must develop stock markets and related institutions such as brokerages clearing and settling organizations and regulatory agencies This paper examines the role of capital markets in the new market economies of Central and Eastern Europe and to what extent governments in the region should encourage the development of such markets The authors address questions of whether the capital markets will serve merely as a forum for trading stocks or become a source of new equity capital to help restructure the enterprises of the region and whether governments should take a hands off approach by letting the necessary institutions develop as they are needed or should actively create stock exchanges and establish the overall legal and regulatory framework

Putting Institutional Economics to Work Robert Picciotto, 1995-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 266 Critiques both beneficial and detrimental government regulations that affect commodity markets in developing countries Commodity markets require a regulatory environment that encourages private enterprise Government regulations are needed to foster conditions in which market participants have the incentive and the opportunity to operate successfully This paper poses the difficult question of which regulations are essential for the development of commodity markets and which become impediments Government regulations are classified according to whether they are Essential for the development of competitive markets Facilitators of developing private market rules Impediments to market development The authors use the agricultural market as an example for outlining regulatory strategies and summarize the minimum requirements for market development Cost Sharing in the Social Sectors of Sub-Saharan Africa Arvil V. Adams, Teresa Hartnett, 1996 World Bank Discussion Paper No 338 Reviews the World Bank's recommendation that governments charge user fees for social services for the nonpoor and looks at the impact of these policies on the poor The study inventories country experiences and Bank activities in cost sharing for education and health reviews African experiences with its implementation and assesses the lessons learned The authors discuss the practical problems confronted in implementing cost sharing and protecting the poor and present a series of interrelated actions for achieving the goals of basic education and health for all The Indian Journal of Agricultural Economics, 1946 Vols include Proceedings of the conference of the Indian Society of Agricultural Economics Abstracts on Tropical Agriculture, 1995 Farmers' Crop Varieties and Farmers' Rights Michael Halewood, 2016-03-21 Over the last 50 years there has been a growing appreciation of the important role that farmers play in the development and conservation of crop genetic diversity and the contribution of that diversity to agro ecosystem resilience and food security This book examines policies that aim to increase the share of benefits that farmers receive when others use the crop varieties that they have developed and managed i e farmers varieties In so doing the book addresses two fundamental questions The first question is how do farmer management practices along with other factors such as environment and the breeding systems of plants affect the evolution and maintenance of discrete farmers varieties The second question is how can policies that depend on being able to identify discrete plant varieties accommodate the agricultural realities associated with the generation use and maintenance of farmers varieties This focus on discreteness is topical because there are no fixed internationally recognized taxonomic or legal definitions of farmers varieties And that presents a challenge when developing policies that involve making specific discrete farmers varieties the subject of legal rights or privileges The book includes contributions from a wide range of experts including agronomists anthropologists geneticists biologists plant breeders lawyers development practitioners activists and farmers It includes case studies from Asia Africa Latin America and Europe where in response to a diversity of contributing factors there have been efforts to develop policies that provide incentives or rewards to farmers as stewards of farmers varieties in ways that are sensitive to the cultural taxonomic and legal complexities involved The book situates these initiatives in the context of the evolving discourse and definition of farmers rights presenting insights for future policy initiatives Clearance and Settlement Systems for Securities Jeff Stehm, 1996 Sustainable maize production systems for Nepal.
