

CALL FOR PAPERS

IEEE Journal of Selected Topics in Applied Earth Observations and Remote Sensing Special Issue on

"Application of remote sensing on urban renewal and its eco-environment effect"

The low efficiency of urban land use and insufficient land reservation are inevitable in urbanization. Therefore, the rapid urbanization process is usually accompanied by urban renewal. The purpose of urban renewal is to demolish, transform, invest and construct the ruined area in the city, and replace the functional decaying material space with new urban functions to make it develop and prosper again. Because urban renewal can benefit land use efficiency and ecological environmental benefits by changing urban form and development mode, it has gradually become a focus of urban planning and urban sustainable development management.

This special issue aims to collect and highlight recent progresses, current challenges, and future opportunities in the application of remote sensing data and methods on urban renewal and its eco-environment effect, especially in the following topics:

- Newly developed sensor for monitoring urban renewal
- Newly constructed remote sensing index of urban renewal
- Newly produced remote sensing data sets of urban renewal
- Application of new methods and technologies in urban renewal and its eco-environment effect
