Philosophy Evolution And Human Nature:

What's Left of Human Nature? Maria Kronfeldner, 2018-10-16 A philosophical account of human nature that defends the concept against dehumanization Darwinian and developmentalist challenges Human nature has always been a foundational issue for philosophy What does it mean to have a human nature Is the concept the relic of a bygone age What is the use of such a concept What are the epistemic and ontological commitments people make when they use the concept In What's Left of Human Nature Maria Kronfeldner offers a philosophical account of human nature that defends the concept against contemporary criticism In particular she takes on challenges related to social misuse of the concept that dehumanizes those regarded as lacking human nature the dehumanization challenge the conflict between Darwinian thinking and essentialist concepts of human nature the Darwinian challenge and the consensus that evolution heredity and ontogenetic development result from nurture and nature After answering each of these challenges Kronfeldner presents a revisionist account of human nature that minimizes dehumanization and does not fall back on outdated biological ideas Her account is post essentialist because it eliminates the concept of an essence of being human pluralist in that it argues that there are different things in the world that correspond to three different post essentialist concepts of human nature and interactive because it understands nature and nurture as interacting at the developmental epigenetic and evolutionary levels On the basis of this she introduces a dialectical concept of an ever changing and looping human nature Finally noting the essentially contested character of the concept and the ambiguity and redundancy of the terminology she wonders if we should simply eliminate the term human nature altogether inclusive fitness theory and investigates how scientific and conceptual insights can be integrated into one explanatory framework which he contrasts with the alternative Cartesian derived framework He then explores the differences between these explanatory frameworks with reference to co operation and conflict at different levels of biological organization the evolution of communicative behaviour the human mind language and moral behaviour His book will interest advanced students and scholars in a range of subjects including philosophy biology and psychology

Human Nature and the Limits of Darwinism Whitley R.P. Kaufman,2016-06-22 This book compares two competing theories of human nature the more traditional theory espoused in different forms by centuries of western philosophy and the newer Darwinian model In the traditional view the human being is a hybrid being with a lower animal nature and a higher rational or spiritual component The competing Darwinian account does away with the idea of a higher nature and attempts to provide a complete reduction of human nature to the evolutionary goals of survival and reproduction Whitley Kaufman presents the case that the traditional conception regardless of one s religious views or other beliefs provides a superior account of human nature and culture We are animals but we are also rational animals Kaufman explores the most fundamental philosophical questions as they relate to this debate over human nature for example Is free will an illusion Is morality a product of evolution with no objective basis Is reason merely a tool for promoting reproductive success Is art an adaptation for attracting mates Is there any higher meaning or purpose to human life Human Nature and the Limits of Darwinism aims to assess the competing views of human nature and present a clear account of the issues on this most pressing of questions It engages in a close analysis of the numerous recent attempts to explain all human aims in terms of Darwinian processes and presents the arguments in support of the traditional conception of human nature

On Human Nature Jonathan H. Turner, 2020-11-24 In this book Jonathan H Turner combines sociology evolutionary biology cladistic analysis from biology and comparative neuroanatomy to examine human nature as inherited from common ancestors shared by humans and present day great apes Selection pressures altered this inherited legacy for the ancestors of humans termed hominins for being bipedal and forced greater organization than extant great apes when the hominins moved into open country terrestrial habitats The effects of these selection pressures increased hominin ancestors emotional capacities through greater social and group orientation This shift in turn enabled further selection for a larger brain articulated speech and culture along the human line Turner elaborates human nature as a series of overlapping complexes that are the outcome of the inherited legacy of great apes being fed through the transforming effects of a larger brain speech and culture These complexes he shows can be understood as the cognitive complex the psychological complex the emotions complex the interaction complex and the community complex

On Human Nature Armin Grunwald, Matthias Gutmann, Eva M. Neumann-Held, 2013-04-17 Modern molecular technology in the so called life sciences biology as well as medicine allows today to approach and manipulate living beings in ways and to an extent which not too long ago seemed Utopian The empirical progress promises further and even more radical developments in the future and it is at least often claimed that this kind of research will have tremendous effects on and for all of humanity for example in the areas of food production transplantation medicine including stem cell research and xenotransplantation therapeutic genetic manipulation and cell line cloning of cell lines or tissues and of biodiversity conservation strategies At least in Western industrialized countries the development of modern sciences led to a steady increase of human health well being and quality of life However with the move to make the human body itself an object of scientific research interests the respective scientific descriptions resulted in changes in the image that human beings have of themselves Scientific progress has led to a startling loss of traditional human self understanding This development is in contrast to an understanding according to which the question what it means to be human is treated in the realm of philosophy And indeed a closer look reveals that without denying the value of scientific progress science cannot replace the philosophical approach to anthropological questions

Adapting Minds David J. Buller, 2006-02-17 Was human nature designed by natural selection in the Pleistocene epoch The dominant view in evolutionary psychology holds that it was that our psychological adaptations were designed tens of thousands of years ago to solve problems faced by our hunter gatherer ancestors In this provocative and lively book David Buller examines in detail the major claims of evolutionary psychology the paradigm popularized by Steven Pinker in The Blank Slate and by David Buss in The Evolution of Desire and rejects them all This does not mean that we cannot apply evolutionary theory to human psychology says Buller but that the conventional wisdom in evolutionary psychology is misguided Evolutionary psychology employs a kind of reverse engineering to explain the evolved design of the mind figuring out the adaptive problems our ancestors faced and then inferring the psychological adaptations that evolved to solve them In the carefully argued central chapters of Adapting Minds Buller scrutinizes several of evolutionary psychology's most highly publicized discoveries including discriminative parental solicitude the idea that stepparents abuse their stepchildren at a higher rate than genetic parents abuse their biological children Drawing on a wide range of empirical research including his own large scale study of child abuse he shows that none is actually supported by the evidence Buller argues that our minds are not adapted to the Pleistocene but like the immune system are continually adapting over both evolutionary time and individual lifetimes We must move beyond the reigning orthodoxy of evolutionary psychology to reach an accurate understanding of how human psychology is influenced by evolution When we do Buller claims we will abandon not only the quest for human nature but the very idea of human nature itself
