

A surreal landscape featuring a person in a dark jacket and cap standing on a large, reddish-brown rock in the foreground. The person is looking towards a city of wireframe buildings that appear to be constructed from thin, glowing lines. The sky is a mix of blue and orange, with numerous books floating in the air, some open and some closed. A large, bright yellow sun or moon is visible in the upper right corner.

Philosophy And Everyday Life:

101 Experiments in the Philosophy of Everyday Life Roger-Pol Droit, 2002 Roger Pol Droit's book is a reassessment of our day to day engagement with life. In 101 short texts Droit invites us to reconsider our most ordinary actions as unexpected philosophical events: peeling an apple, trying to lie in a hammock, watching someone sleep, hearing your voice on an answering machine, playing with a small child, activities that when considered outside of their routine invite us to experience the familiar in startling new ways. Droit encourages us to go further: pretend to be an animal of your choice, create a wall with your hands, try to walk around your room in total darkness, spend time in the Underground and observe your oddity. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. All Rights Reserved Freedom and Dissatisfaction in the Works of Agnes Heller Lucy Jane Ward, 2016-12-27 Ward's book focuses on the work of the Hungarian philosopher Agnes Heller, prominent member of the Budapest School, a group of students who studied under the Marxist social theorist György Lukács. For both Marx and Heller, albeit in different ways, dissatisfaction emerges as the inevitable result of the expansion of needs within modernity and as a catalyst for the development of anthropological wealth, what Marx refers to as the human being rich in need. Ward argues that dissatisfaction and the corresponding category of human wealth as both motif and method is central to grasping Heller's seemingly disparate writings. While Marx postulates a radical overcoming of dissatisfaction, Heller argues dissatisfaction is integral not only to the ongoing survival of modernity but also to the dynamics of both freedom and individual life. In this way, Heller's work remains committed to a position that both continually returns and departs, is both with and against the philosophy of Marx. This book will be of interest to scholars of political philosophy, social theory, critical theory, and sociology. Interpreting Philosophy Nicholas Rescher, 2013-05-02 Metaphilosophy is philosophy's poor and neglected cousin. Philosophers are on the whole too busy doing philosophy to take time to stand back and consider reflectively how the project itself actually works. And they tend to produce texts without too much consideration of how this looks from the standpoint of the consumer. All this it seems to be affords good reason for attending to philosophical hermeneutics, reflecting on the issue of how philosophical texts are to be understood and interpreted.

Cavell, Williams and the Question of Style in Philosophy Paolo Babbioni, 2024-10-07 This book considers the work of two philosophers situated within the Anglo-American analytical tradition: Stanley Cavell (1926-2018) and Bernard Williams (1929-2003). It examines the literary strategies that these stylistically aware authors employ and also the ethical demand which guides their philosophies and gives substance to their philosophical styles. The book thereby aims to demonstrate the importance of style in philosophy and suggest some of the intellectual dynamics a philosopher's conscious awareness of style can create. Philosophy and the Everyday Lives Frisian Hadinata, James Farlow Mendrofa, 2021 Studying philosophy means unraveling reality in all its aspects. By contextualizing today's reality in its social, political, ecological, spiritual, and also aesthetic context, the chapters in this edited volume present research findings complementing or even challenging ongoing scholarly discussions in philosophy and humanity The chapters are divided into five sections based on the issues being discussed 1 Law and Politics 2 Economy 3 Humanity and Wellbeing 4 Rethinking Spirituality and 5 Arts Besides the obvious urgency to problematize these issues due to the dynamics of paradigm and theories in the field of philosophy there will always be a need to constantly create new conversations The wide variety of aspects of humanity that are being analyzed in the chapters are done by non Westerns scholars in this case Indonesian scholars and this provides alternative ways of interpreting philosophical concepts in relation to everyday realities The issues being discussed might seem universal as depicted in the choices of texts which come from different countries However the specificity of each context contributes to a more complex discussion of various philosophical aspects The readings and interpretations of the philosophical theories build a non Western scholarship which is definitely needed to enrich the process of knowledge production in the humanities and social sciences The multiplicity of the texts chosen as case studies in each chapter is the primary specialty of this edited volume since there are not a lot of projects that cover multiple issues coming from different locales in one book with an interdisciplinary approach

Critiques of Everyday Life Michael Gardiner, 2002-01-04 Recent years have witnessed a burgeoning interest in the study of everyday life within the social sciences and humanities In Critiques of Everyday Life Michael Gardiner proposes that there exists a counter tradition within everyday life theorising This counter tradition has sought not merely to describe lived experience but to transform it by elevating our understanding of the everyday to the status of a critical knowledge In his analysis Gardiner engages with the work of a number of significant theorists and approaches that have been marginalized by mainstream academe including The French tradition of everyday life theorising from the surrealists to Henri Lefebvre and from the Situationist International to Michel de Certeau Agnes Heller and the relationship between the everyday rationality and ethics Carnival prosaics and intersubjectivity in the work of Mikhail Bakhtin Dorothy E Smith s feminist perspective on everyday life Critiques of Everyday Life demonstrates the importance of an alternative multidisciplinary everyday life paradigm and offers a myriad of new possibilities for critical social and cultural theorising and empirical research

Epistemic Merit Nicholas Rescher, 2013-05-02 The present book continues Rescher s longstanding practice of publishing groups of philosophical essays that originated in occasional lecture and conference presentations Notwithstanding their topical diversity they exhibit a uniformity of method in a common attempt to view historically significant philosophical issues in the light of modern perspectives opened up through conceptual clarification
