

Roxar Weight Loss Coupon Holder and Coupons

1" Retractable System

Retractable Weight Loss Coupon Holder/Coupons

Use of Weight Loss Coupons is a classical and still commonly used method for internal corrosion monitoring. A Coupon of a material similar to the pipe material ⁽¹⁾ is installed inside the pipe or vessel for a given period, and after retrieval, Coupon weight loss is measured. From the weight loss, corrosion rates can be calculated. In addition, effects like pitting corrosion, scaling, deposits or bacteria can be analyzed.

All Roxar Coupons are made according to NACE specifications, and it is also recommended that Coupon analysis are done according to the NACE recommendations ⁽²⁾. Each Coupon is marked with serial number, weight (to 0,1 mg accuracy), dimensions and material quality. Each Coupon is individually packed in inhibited envelopes.

A retractable Weight Loss Coupon assembly comprises the following:

- Retractable Coupon Holder and Coupon assembly
- Pipe connection through a threaded type fitting or flanged connection.
- Minimum 1" full port valve (optional, often provided by client)
- Packing box
- Safety wire arrangement
- Safety and operational reliability are important elements of the probe design. In addition to the safety wire, the Coupon holder also contains a blow out preventer to ensure that the probe is not accidentally pushed out from its position when installed.

In order to ensure controlled installation and retrieval of probes and Coupons, it is recommended that Roxar's Retractor Tool is always used.

⁽¹⁾ Although Coupons can be made to specification and actual pipe material, for economic and other valid reasons it is recommended to use industry standard Coupons for normal carbon steel applications. For higher alloyed steels, Coupons should meet pipe specifications.

⁽²⁾ NACE international practice RP0775, latest revision.
