Applied Evaluative Informetrics Henk F. Moed, 2017-09-08 This book presents an introduction to the field of applied evaluative informetrics dealing with the use of bibliometric or informetric indicators in research assessment. It sketches the field's history, recent achievements, and its potential and limits. The book dedicates special attention to the application context of quantitative research assessment. It describes research assessment as an evaluation science and distinguishes various assessment models in which the domain of informetrics and the policy sphere are disentangled analytically. It illustrates how external non-informetric factors influence indicator development and how the policy context impacts the setup of an assessment process. It also clarifies common misunderstandings in the interpretation of some often used statistics. Addressing the way forward, the book expresses the author's critical views on a series of fundamental problems in the current use of research performance indicators in research assessment. Highlighting the potential of informetric techniques, a series of new features is proposed that could be implemented in future assessment processes. It sketches a perspective on altmetrics and proposes new lines in longer term strategic indicator research. It is written for interested scholars from all domains of science and scholarship and especially for all those subjected to research assessment: research students at advanced master and PhD level, research managers, funders, and science policy officials, and to practitioners and students in the field.

A Better World is Possible Georgina Ferry, 2017-09-07 On 17 March 1967, the 26-year-old David Sainsbury wrote out a cheque for £5 and established the trust which would become the Gatsby Charitable Foundation. Gatsby's purpose was ambitious: to make the world a better place by taking on some of the social, economic, and scientific challenges that face humanity. In recent years, Gatsby has spent around £50m annually on charitable activities, and by its 50th anniversary in 2017, it will have spent over £1bn on programmes that range from reducing poverty in Africa to raising the standard of technical education, investigating how plants fight disease, and finding out how the brain works. But despite Gatsby's wide reach and the level of its donations, it has always functioned discreetly and out of the public eye. Georgina Ferry's in-depth account reveals its achievements and invites us to question how the super-rich and even the moderately affluent might spend their money more wisely and for the common good.
