the Threat of Speech Catherine Schlegel, 2005 In his first book of Satires written in the late violent days of the Roman republic Horace exposes satiric speech as a tool of power and domination Using critical theories from classics speech act theory and others Catherine Schlegel argues that Horace's acute poetic observation of hostile speech provides insights into the operations of verbal control that are relevant to his time and to ours She demonstrates that though Horace is forced by his political circumstances to develop a new unthreatening style of satire his poems contain a challenge to our most profound habits of violence hierarchy and domination Focusing on the relationships between speaker and audience and between old and new style Schlegel examines the internal conflicts of a notoriously difficult text This exciting contribution to the field of Horatian studies will be of interest to classicists as well as other scholars interested in the genre of satire     Status and Power in Verbal Interaction Julie Diamond, 1996-01-01 Status and Power in Verbal Interaction is a sociolinguistic study of conversation in a social context Using an ethnographic methodology and a network analysis of the social roles and relationships in a particular language community the book explores how speakers negotiate status relationship and ultimately contest power through discourse Of chief concern to the study is how speakers manage to negotiate relationship roles which here consists of institutional status as well as the more variable social standing using conversation Discourse is seen to be not only what people say but how they say it how speakers take the floor bring new topic to the floor interrupt each other and become a resource person in a conversation The study revolves around the idea that power while intricately tied to social standing and institutional status is more than the sum of one's institutional standing age education race and gender Though these factors convey rank conversants nonetheless use discourse to jockey for position and contest their relational role vis a vis their discourse partners While institutional standing may be more or less fixed power of relational roles fluctuates greatly because as the study shows power is accorded through a process of ratifying the positive self image of a speaker Thus one's standing in a group is a community negotiation By investigating power in community at a micro level of analysis this study adds a new dimension to existing understandings of power     The Mystery of Growth, and Other Discourses Edward White, 1877     The Discourses of Epictetus Epictetus, 1877     Discourses David Crawford (D.D.), 1870     A Text-book of Human Physiology Leonard Landois, 1892
