Pluralism Politics And Ideology In The Creole Caribbean:

Pluralism, Politics, and Ideology in the Creole Caribbean Michael Garfield Smith, 1991 Race, Class, and Nationalism in the Twenty-First-Century Caribbean Scott Timcke, Shelene Gomes, 2024-11

This collection of more than a dozen essays focuses on the political dynamics of race class and nationalism in the contemporary Caribbean. Despite the plethora of studies on nationalism in the Caribbean few have attempted to look at the phenomenon as a political invention that does not and cannot serve the interests of all. How essentialist, reductive, overdetermining nationalism is a political and conceptual confusion that forever stalls the project of universal human emancipation. Editors Scott Timcke and Shelene Gomes gather and frame chapters that in their collective expression help trace the process of race class and nationalism through the contours of a broader political economic and social geography. These chapters argue that notions of racial identity have changed over time but those reformations are not independent of class rule or nationalism. By using several case studies that span the Anglo Dutch French and Spanish Caribbean and focus on the development of political organizations, hardships and ideology, each of these essays continues the struggle for liberation against elite entrenchment.

A Man Divided Douglas Hall, 1997

Michael Garfield Smith was an internationally distinguished anthropologist. He was also a poet of merit but few people knew that or really understood the conflicts, personal and professional, that made him in the opinion of many who knew him appear arrogant and unapproachable. This account tries to show the whole man and it is to date the only biography of M G Smith. A Man Divided is a brief account of M G Smith, the man, the talented, hardworking Jamaican and how he made his way rather than of the academic performance of Professor M G Smith, the internationally distinguished anthropologist.

Preface Routledge International Handbook of Diversity Studies Steven Vertovec, 2014-11-20

In recent years the concept of diversity has gained a leading place in academic thought, business practice and public policy worldwide. Although variously used, diversity tends to refer to patterns of social difference in terms of certain key categories. Today the foremost categories shaping discourses and policies of diversity include race, ethnicity, religion, gender, disability, sexuality and age. Further important notions include class, language, locality, lifestyle and legal status. The Routledge Handbook of Diversity Studies will examine a range of such concepts along with historical and contemporary cases concerning social and political dynamics surrounding them. With contributions by experts spanning Sociology, Anthropology, Political Science, History and Geography, the Handbook will be a key resource for students, social scientists and professionals. It will represent a landmark volume within a field that has become and will continue to be one of the most significant global topics of concern throughout the twenty-first century.

Decolonizing the Colonial City Colin Clarke, 2006-08-31

Colin Clarke investigates the role of class, colour, race and culture in the changing social stratification and spatial patterning of Kingston, Jamaica, since independence. He concludes with a comparison with the post-colonial urban problems of South Africa and Brazil. Includes multiple maps produced and compiled using GIS.
