The Possibility of Transcendental Philosophy J.N. Mohanty, 1985-07-31 These essays span a period of fourteen years The earliest was written in 1960 the latest in 1983 They all represent various attempts to understand the motives and the central concepts of Husserl's transcendental phenomenology and to locate the latter in the background of other varieties of transcendental philosophy Implicitly they also contain a defense of transcendental philosophy and make attempts to respond to the more familiar criticisms against it It is hoped that they will contribute to a better understanding not only of Husserl's transcendental phenomenology but also of transcendental philosophy in general The ordering of the essays is not chronological They are rather divided thematically into three groups The first group of six essays is concerned with relating Husserlian phenomenology to more contemporary analytic concerns in fact the opening essay on Husserl and Frege establishes a certain continuity of concern with my last published book with that title Of these Essay 2 was written for an American Philosophical Association Eastern Division symposium in which the other symposiast was John Searle The discussion in that symposium concentrated chiefly on the relation between intentionality and causality which led me to write Essay 6 later read as the Gurwitsch Memorial Lecture at the Society for Phenomenology and Existential Philosophy meetings in 1982 at Penn State

Kant's Modal Metaphysics Nicholas F. Stang, 2016-03-18 What is possible and why What is the difference between the merely possible and the actual In Kant's Modal Metaphysics Nicholas Stang examines Kant's lifelong engagement with these questions and their role in his philosophical development This is the first book to trace Kant's theory of possibility all the way from the so called pre-Critical writings of the 1750s and 1760s to the Critical system of philosophy inaugurated by the Critique of Pure Reason in 1781 Stang argues that the key to understanding both the change and the continuity between Kants pre Critical and Critical theory of possibility is his transformation of the ontological question about possibility what is it for a being to be possible into a question in transcendental philosophy what is it to represent an object as possible The first half of Kants Modal Metaphysics explores Kants pre Critical theory of possibility including his answer to the ontological question about the nature of possibility his rejection of the traditional ontological argument for the existence of God and his own argument that God must exist to ground all possibility The second half examines why Kant reoriented his theory of possibility around the transcendental question what this question means and how Kant answered it in the Critical philosophy Stang shows that despite this reorientation Kants basic scheme for thinking about possibility remains constant from the pre Critical period through the Critical system What had been an ontological theory of possible being is reinterpreted in the Critical system as a theory of how we must represent possible objects given the nature of our intellect

The Transcendental Turn Sebastian Gardner, Matthew Grist, 2015-02-19 Kant s influence on the history of philosophy is vast and protean The transcendental turn denotes one of its most important forms defined by the notion that Kant s deepest insight should not be identified with any specific epistemological or metaphysical doctrine but rather concerns the fundamental standpoint and terms of reference of philosophical enquiry To take the transcendental turn is not to endorse any of Kant s specific teachings but to accept that the Copernican revolution announced in the Preface of the Critique of Pure Reason sets philosophy on a new footing and constitutes the proper starting point of philosophical reflection The aim of this volume is to map the historical trajectory of transcendental philosophy and the major forms that it has taken The contributions from leading contemporary scholars focus on the question of what the transcendental turn consists in its motivation justification and implications and the limitations and problems which it arguably confronts with reference to the relevant major figures in modern philosophy including Kant Fichte Hegel Nietzsche Husserl Heidegger Merleau Ponty and Wittgenstein Central themes and topics discussed include the distinction of realism from idealism the relation of transcendental to absolute idealism the question of how transcendental conclusions stand in relation to and whether they can be made compatible with naturalism the application of transcendental thought to foundational issues in ethics and the problematic relation of phenomenology to transcendental enquiry parts of this masterpiece of modern philosophy In this course Heidegger continues the task he enunciated in Being and Time as the problem of dismantling the history of ontology using temporality as a clue Heidegger demonstrates that the relation between philosophy ontology and fundamental ontology is rooted in the genesis of the modern mathematical sciences He also shows that objectification of beings as beings is inseparable from knowledge a priori the central problem of Kant's Critique He concludes that objectification rests on the productive power of imagination a process that involves temporality which is the basic constitution of humans as beings Introduction to the critical history of philosophy, the intr. chapter of the 'Critical history of philosophy'.
