Playing To Win Employability And Jobs In The Knowledge Economy:

The Mismanagement of Talent Phillip Brown, Anthony Hesketh, Sara Williams, 2004-07-29 The knowledge economy conjures a world of smart people in smart jobs doing smart things in smart ways for smart money a world increasingly open to all rather than a few Glossy corporate brochures present a future in challenging exciting and financially rewarding jobs for the winners in the competition for fast track management appointments They also convey an image of enlightened employers actively seeking to diversify their talent pool reflected in their approach to identifying hiring and retaining outstanding talent We are told that the challenge confronting governments around the world is to enhance the employability of the workforce Every effort must be made to expand access to higher education dismantle barriers to talent regardless of social circumstances gender or skin colour and to harness human creativity and enterprise to meet the demands of the new economy The Mismanagement of Talent comes to a different conclusion Those leaving the world of mass higher education find themselves in a scramble for jobs with rising stakes for the winners and losers The Mismanagement of Talent examines what determines the outcome of this race when a degree loses its badge of distinction It shows how some graduates are playing the game to win a competitive advantage and what really happens in the selection events of leading edge employers It also argues that talent is being mismanaged by employers that have yet to come to terms with the realities and possibilities of mass higher education The Mismanagement of Talent will be thought provoking and controversial reading for those involved in the recruitment of graduates and those concerned with the way knowledge based firms recruit and the impact of higher education policy Professionals working in university careers services HRM training or recruitment generally Researchers academics or students of Business and Management Human Resource Management Public Policy Education or Sociology and Job candidates themselves the players and purists described in the book French Studies in and for the Twenty-first Century Philippe Lane, Michael Worton, 2011 With contributions from leading scholars across the entire range of French studies this up to date volume examines both the current state of French studies in the United Kingdom as well as its future in an increasingly interdisciplinary world where student demand new technologies and developments in transnational education are changing the ways in which we teach learn research and assess achievements Required reading for French studies scholars worldwide this volume builds upon the findings of the influential Review of Modern Foreign Languages Provision in Higher Education and maps the present and future of the field The Knowledge Economy and Lifelong Learning D.W. Livingstone, David Guile, 2012-09-07 This book presents some of the most trenchant critical analyses of the widespread claims for the recent emergence of a knowledge economy and the attendant need for greater lifelong learning The book contains two sections first general critiques of the limits of current notions of a knowledge economy and required adult learning in terms of historical comparisons socio political construction and current empirical evidence secondly specific challenges to presumed relations between work requirements and learning through case studies in diverse current workplaces that document richer learning processes than knowledge economy advocates intimate Many of the leading authors in the field are represented There are no other books to date that both critically assess the limits of the notion of the knowledge economy and examine closely the relation of workplace restructuring to lifelong learning beyond the confines of formal higher education and related educational policies This reader provides a distinctive overview for future studies of relations between work and learning in contemporary societies beyond caricatures of the knowledge economy The book should be of interest to students following undergraduate or postgraduate courses in most social sciences and education business and labour studies departments as well as to policy makers and the general public concerned about economic change and lifelong learning issues D W Livingstone is Canada Research Chair in Lifelong Learning and Work and Professor Emeritus at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education University of Toronto David Guile is Professor of Education and Work at the Institute of Education University of London
