

POINTS TO PONDER

- ✓ The path length traversed by an object between two points is, in general, not the same as the magnitude of displacement. The displacement depends only on the end points, while the path length (as the name implies) depends on the actual path. The two quantities are equal only if the object does not change its direction during the course of motion. In other cases, the path length is greater than the magnitude of displacement.
- ✓ From the view of point 1 above, the average speed of an object is greater than or equal to the magnitude of the average velocity over a given time interval. The two are equal only if the path length is equal to the magnitude of displacement.
- ✓ The vector equations (4.33a) and (4.34a) do not involve any choice of axes. Of course, one can always resolve them along any two independent axes.
- ✓ The kinematic equations for uniform acceleration do not apply to the case of circular motion. In this case the magnitude of acceleration is constant.
- ✓ The resultant of two velocities  $\mathbf{v}_1$  and  $\mathbf{v}_2$  has a resultant velocity  $\mathbf{v} = \mathbf{v}_1 + \mathbf{v}_2$ . This is true only if  $\mathbf{v}_1$  and  $\mathbf{v}_2$  are velocities with reference to some common reference frame.
- ✓ The centripetal acceleration of an object in circular motion is towards the centre of the circle and its magnitude is constant.
- ✓ The shape of the trajectory of the motion of an object is not determined by the acceleration alone but also depends on the initial conditions of motion (initial position and initial velocity). For example, the trajectory of an object moving under the same acceleration due to gravity can be a straight line or a parabola depending on the initial conditions.

EXERCISES

- ✓ 1. State, for each of the following physical quantities, if it is a scalar or a vector: volume, mass, speed, acceleration, density, number of moles, velocity, angular frequency, displacement, angular velocity.
- ✓ 2. Pick out the two scalar quantities in the following list: force, angular momentum, work, current, linear momentum, electric field, magnetic field, magnetic moment, relative velocity.
- ✓ 3. Pick out the only vector quantity in the following list: temperature, time, power, total path length, energy, gravitational potential, charge.
- ✓ 4. State, for each of the following algebraic operations with scalar and vector quantities, whether the result is a scalar or a vector:
  - (a) adding two scalars, (b) adding a scalar to a vector of the same dimension, (c) multiplying any vector by any scalar, (d) multiplying any two scalars, (e) adding two vectors, (f) adding a component of a vector to the same vector.
- ✓ 5. For each of the following statements below carefully and state with reasons, if it is true or false:
  - (a) The magnitude of a vector is always a scalar, (b) each component of a vector is a scalar, (c) the total path length is always equal to the magnitude of the displacement vector of a particle, (d) the average speed of a particle (defined as total path length divided by the time taken to cover the path) is either greater or equal to the magnitude of average velocity of the particle over the same interval of time, (e) vectors not lying in a plane can never add up to give a null vector.
- ✓ 6. Establish the following vector inequalities:
  - (a)  $|\mathbf{a} + \mathbf{b}| \leq |\mathbf{a}| + |\mathbf{b}|$ , (b)  $|\mathbf{a} - \mathbf{b}| \geq ||\mathbf{a}| - |\mathbf{b}||$ , (c)  $|\mathbf{a} \cdot \mathbf{b}| \leq |\mathbf{a}| |\mathbf{b}|$ , (d)  $|\mathbf{a} \times \mathbf{b}| \leq |\mathbf{a}| |\mathbf{b}|$ .
