Plunder Story Of Rtz The Worlds Most Powerful Mining Company:

Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998      Plunder of Namibian Uranium United Nations Council for Namibia,1982 In 1980 a week of hearings was called by the UN Council for Namibia in order to focus attention on the plunder of Namibian uranium. The hearings drew experts, eye witnesses and representatives of non governmental organizations to give testimony before an international panel. The evidence presented at the hearings revealed the extensive scope of uranium mining, the role therein played by transnational corporations and certain Western governments, the dangers to the Namibian workers and the Namibian environment and the development of a South African nuclear capacity. The point was also made by many participants that uranium mining was illegal following the revocation of the Mandate 1966, the International Court of Justice advisory opinion 1971 and the UN Decree No 1 1974. The main findings of the hearing are concisely summarized in this booklet which also lists the transnational corporations involved in the extraction, processing and sale of Namibian uranium together with their South African connections. The text of this booklet is also reprinted in Objective Justice 14 no 2 1982 20-55. Eriksen Moorsom 1989      Mining Journal, Railway & Commercial Gazette ,1888      Private Planet David Cromwell,2001. Climate scientist and green activist David Cromwell examines how and why the forces of globalization are opposing ecological sustainability, human rights and social justice and draws on examples from around the world to show what we can do to reverse the process. He makes the point that centralized state and corporate power is vulnerable to significant grassroots awareness and activism. This book's solutions offer ample cause for hope and cautious optimism.
