Plural Society in Peril: Migration, Economic Change, and the Papua Conflict Rodd McGibbon, 2022 Plural Society in Peril Rodd McGibbon, 2004 This study examines the ways in which large scale migration and rapid economic change have fueled separatism and ethnic conflict in Papua It presents an analysis of recent census data showing that three quarters of a million migrants from other parts of Indonesia have resettled in the territory since 1970 either through official transmigration programs or as unsponsored economic migrants Based on this analysis the study illustrates how rapid modernization and demographic change have resulted in the displacement and dislocation of Papua s indigenous population provoking Papuan resentment and demands for independence But rapid social change has not only spurred ethnonationalist mobilization it has also generated ethnic and tribal tensions within Papua Growing competition for land and resources between settlers and Papuans has given rise to persistent social conflict in Papua The threat now looms that this social conflict could trigger a larger outbreak of communal and ethnic violence as in neighboring areas So far Papua has proved relatively resistant to efforts to foment widespread conflict It remains unclear however whether the government can address the deep seated sense of Papuan resentment leading to alienation and conflict It could do so by reversing many of its divisive policies and redoubling its efforts to bring services to remote indigenous communities In the absence of such initiatives continuing inflows of migrants into the province may well overwhelm the mechanisms for social management that have so far kept conflict from spiraling out of control This is the thirteenth publication in Policy Studies a peer reviewed East West Center Washington series that presents scholarly analysis of key contemporary domestic and international political economic and strategic issues affecting Asia in a policy relevant manner Geben, Nehmen, Tauschen Thomas Gimesi, 2010

Indonesia was founded on the ideal of the Sovereignty of the People which suggests the pre eminence of people s rights to access use and control land to support their livelihoods Yet many questions remain unresolved How can the state ensure access to land for agriculture and housing while also supporting land acquisition for investment in industry and infrastructure What is to be done about indigenous rights Do registration and titling provide solutions Is the land reform agenda legislated but never implemented still relevant How should the land questions affecting Indonesia s disappearing forests be resolved The contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago from large scale land acquisitions in Papua to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan Sulawesi and Sumatra What are the prospects for the people s sovereignty in regard to land Moving within Borders William Ascher, Shane Joshua Barter, 2024-01-13 This book highlights the attention that policymakers activists and the public should pay to internal migration Although prominent research has analyzed particular types of internal migration especially urbanization and internally displaced persons IDPs the narrow scope of existing studies cannot capture the overlaps of motivation and circumstances that pose serious policy dilemmas The book is distinctive in examining the full range of modes and motives of internal migration state sponsored or unsponsored coerced or voluntary land seeking or market seeking urban or rural and so on While approaching internal migration holistically it also emphasizes how it is distinct from international migrations especially the central role of the state whose internal divisions and defensive reactions to challenges often play decisive roles in governing migration The writing style is geared towards accessibility making it appropriate for college and graduate level students as well as the broader public Dynamics of Conflict and Displacement in Papua, Indonesia Eva-Lotta E. Hedman, 2007 Challenges of

Governance Ronald L. Holzhaecker, Wendy Guan Zhen Tan, 2021-01-05 This book presents a varied and multi dimensional view of challenges of governance in Southeast Asia and ASEAN through the variety of disciplines and nationalities involved In light of 50 years of regional collaboration and integration as the member states of ASEAN seek to chart out a future path for the region this book is dedicated to showcasing different challenges to governance that occur due to internal and external pressures for the various member states The editors are particularly interested in the multi level governance challenges on issues of democracy equity and sustainability the adaptation of policies and norms to fit an ASEAN way and the changing roles of civil society and citizens in this process of seeking a common identity and voice The book is divided into four sections The first section introduces the fundamental political institutional dynamics that are in play within the region and the interplay between regional forces and national norms The second section tackles the economic and legal discourses that various member states face in relation to external and internal pressures related to international and regional trade and industry. The third section focuses on issues of sustainability and equity resulting from the vast socio-spatial differences in the varied cities and regions of member states. In the final section, the authors discuss dilemmas resulting from economic growth in exploitative industries and the impact that has on the local and regional community through the lenses of inclusivity and justice. Written by a diverse collection of policy makers, researchers, educators, and activists from the regions discussed, this book provides an authoritative first-hand analysis of key challenges to governance in Southeast Asia and ASEAN. As such, this volume is an excellent resource for academics, advanced masters and PhD candidates interested in the region and major Southeast Asian research institutes and centers as well as policy makers and influencers at both national and regional levels within the region.

The Politics of Military Reform in Post-Suharto Indonesia Marcus Mietzner, 2006. This study discusses the process of military reform in Indonesia after the fall of Suharto's New Order regime in 1998. The extent of Indonesia's progress in this area has been the subject of heated debate both in Indonesia and in Western capitals. Human rights organizations and critical academics on the one hand have argued that the reforms implemented so far have been largely superficial and that Indonesia's armed forces remain a highly problematic institution. Foreign proponents of military assistance to Indonesia on the other hand have asserted that the military has undergone radical change as evidenced by its complete extraction from political institutions. This study evaluates the state of military reform eight years after the end of authoritarian rule, pointing to both significant achievements and serious shortcomings. Although the armed forces in the new democratic polity no longer function as the backbone of a powerful centralist regime and have lost many of their previous privileges, the military has been able to protect its core institutional interests by successfully fending off demands to reform the territorial command structure. As the military's primary source of political influence and off-budget revenue, the persistence of the territorial system has ensured that the Indonesian armed forces have not been fully subordinated to democratic civilian control. This ambiguous transition outcome so far poses difficult challenges to domestic and foreign policymakers who have to find ways of effectively engaging with the military to drive the reform process forward. This is the twenty-third publication in the Policy Studies, a peer-reviewed East-West Center Washington series that presents scholarly analysis of key contemporary domestic and international political, economic, and strategic issues affecting Asia in a policy-relevant manner.

representation The Genocide-Ecocide Nexus Damien Short, Martin Crook, 2022-02-09 In a world gripped by an ever worsening ecological crisis there are present and increasing genocidal pressures on many culturally distinct social groups such as indigenous peoples This is where the genocide ecocide nexus presents itself The destruction of ecosystems ecocide can be a method of genocide if for example environmental destruction results in conditions of life that fundamentally threaten a social group's cultural and or physical existence Given the looming threat of runaway climate change the attendant rapid extinction of species destruction of habitats ecological collapse and the self evident dependency of the human race on our bio sphere ecocide both natural and manmade will become a primary driver of genocide Through nine chapters of cutting edge research this book examines specific case studies in geographical settings such as Iraq Sudan Nigeria and Brazil to highlight and analyse the crucial connections and vectors of the genocide ecocide nexus This book will be of great value to scholars students and researchers interested in the ecological crisis Environmental Justice the political economy of genocide and ecocide as well as environmental human rights The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Genocide Research Conflict and Peace in India's Northeast Samir Kumar Das, 2007 The Helsinki Agreement Edward Aspinall, 2005 This study examines the latest attempt to bring an end to one of Asia's longest running separatist conflicts In August 2005 in Finland representatives of the Indonesian government and the Free Aceh Movement signed an agreement which sets down the outline of a comprehensive settlement to the Aceh conflict Until recently this conflict had appeared close to intractable Earlier attempts to reach a negotiated settlement between 2000 and 2003 broke down in acrimony and the Indonesian government launched a military offensive vowing to wipe out the rebels once and for all Why did the two parties agree to resume talks so soon after the earlier failures And what are the chances that the peace agreement will hold this time Written by a leading expert on the Aceh conflict this study examines the factors that prompted the belligerents to return to the negotiating table surveys the course of the negotiations analyses the deal itself and identifies potential spoilers It concludes that the Helsinki agreement represents Aceh's best chance for peace since the separatist insurgency began almost thirty years ago The deal is more comprehensive than earlier agreements and its monitoring provisions are more robust There is also more good will on both sides based partly on greater awareness that previous violent strategies had failed Even so there are powerful forces opposed to the deal and backsliding or equivocation on either side could easily prompt a return to violence if implementation is not managed skillfully This is the twentieth publication in Policy Studies a peer reviewed East West Center Washington series that presents scholarly analysis of key contemporary domestic and international political economic and strategic issues affecting Asia in a policy relevant manner Understanding Violent Conflict in Indonesia, 2009 Initiating a Peace Process in Papua Timo Kivimäki, 2006 Muslim Resistance in Southern Thailand and Southern Philippines Joseph Chinyong Liow, 2005-12-31 This study analyzes the ongoing conflicts in southern Thailand and southern Philippines between indigenous Muslim minorities and their respective central governments In particular it investigates and interrogates the ideological context and content of conflicts in southern Thailand and southern Philippines insofar as they pertain to Islam and radicalism in order to assess the extent to which these conflicts have taken on a greater religious character and the implications this might have on our understanding of them In the main the monograph argues that while conflicts in southern Thailand and southern Philippines have taken on religious hues as a consequence of both local and external factors on present evidence they share little with broader radical global Islamist and Jihadist ideologies and movements and their contents and contexts remain primarily political reflected in the key objective of some measure of self determination and local in terms of the territorial and ideational boundaries of activism and agitation Furthermore though both conflicts appear on the surface to be driven by similar dynamics and mirror each other they are different in several fundamental ways
