Settlement Ecology The Social And Spatial Organization Of Kofyar Agriculture:

Settlement Ecology Glenn Davis Stone, 2022-11-08 What determines agrarian settlement patterns Glenn Davis Stone addresses this question by analyzing the spatial aspects of agrarian ecology the relationship between how farmers farm and where they settle and how farming and settlement change as population density rises Crosscutting the fields of cultural anthropology archaeology geography and agricultural economics Settlement Ecology presents a new perspective on the process of agricultural intensification and explores the relationships between intensification and settlement decision making Stone insists that paleotechnic traditional agriculture must be seen as a social process with the social organization of agricultural work playing a key role in shaping settlement characteristics These relationships are demonstrated in a richly documented case study of the Kofyar who have been settling a frontier in the Nigerian savanna The history of agricultural change and the development of the settlement pattern are reconstructed through ethnography archival research and aerial photos and are analyzed using innovative graphical methods Stone also reflects on the limits of ecological determination of settlement comparing the farming and settlement trajectories of the Kofyar and Tiv on the same frontier Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas Lucas C. Kellett, Eric Jones, 2016-10-04 In this exciting new volume several leading researchers use settlement ecology an emerging approach to the study of archaeological settlements to examine the spatial arrangement of prehistoric settlement patterns across the Americas Positioned at the intersection of geography human ecology anthropology economics and archaeology this diverse collection showcases successful applications of the settlement ecology approach in archaeological studies and also discusses associated techniques such as GIS remote sensing and statistical and modeling applications Using these methodological advancements the contributors investigate the specific social cultural and environmental factors which mediated the placement and arrangement of different sites Of particular relevance to scholars of landscape and settlement archaeology Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas provides fresh insights not only into past societies but also present and future populations in a rapidly changing world Island, River, and Field John H. Walker, 2018-05 John H Walker s innovative study of the Bolivian Amazon examines the agricultural landscape and analyzes the earthworks from an archaeological perspective The Biodemography of Subsistence Farming James W. Wood, 2020-04-23 Viewing the subsistence farm as primarily a demographic enterprise to create and support a family this book offers an integrated view of the demography and ecology of preindustrial farming Taking an interdisciplinary perspective it examines how traditional farming practices interact with demographic processes such as childbearing death and family formation It includes topics such as household nutrition physiological work capacity health and resistance to infectious diseases as well as reproductive performance and mortality The book argues that the farming household is the most informative scale at which to study the biodemography and physiological ecology of preindustrial non commercial agriculture It offers a balanced appraisal of the farming system considering its strengths and limitations as well as the implications of viewing it as a demographic enterprise rather than an economic one A valuable resource for graduate students and researchers in biological and physical anthropology cultural anthropology natural resource management agriculture and ecology Population Circulation and the Transformation of Ancient Zuni Communities Gregson Schachner, 2012-04-01 Because nearly all aspects of culture depend on the movement of bodies objects and ideas mobility has been a primary topic during the past forty years of archaeological research on small scale societies Most studies have concentrated either on local moves related to subsistence within geographically bounded communities or on migrations between regions resulting from pan regional social and environmental changes Gregson Schachner however contends that a critical aspect of mobility is the transfer of people goods and information within regions This type of movement which geographers term population circulation is vitally important in defining how both regional social systems and local communities are constituted maintained and most important changed Schachner analyzes a population shift in the Zuni region of west central New Mexico during the thirteenth century AD that led to the inception of major demographic changes the founding of numerous settlements in frontier zones and the initiation of radical transformations of community organization Schachner argues that intraregional population circulation played a vital role in shaping social transformation in the region and that many notable changes during this period arose directly out of peoples attempts to create new social mechanisms for coping with frequent and geographically extensive residential mobility By examining multiple aspects of population circulation and comparing areas that were newly settled in the thirteenth century to some that had been continuously occupied for hundreds of years Schachner illustrates the role of population circulation in the formation of social groups and the creation of contexts conducive to social change Zeitschrift für Wirtschaftsgeographie, 2001 The Agricultural Dilemma Glenn Davis Stone, 2022-06-30 The Agricultural Dilemma questions everything we think we know about the current state of agriculture and how to or perhaps more importantly how not to feed a world with a growing population This book is about the three fundamental forms of agriculture Malthusian expansion industrialization external input dependent and intensification labor based The best way to understand the three agricultures and how we tend to get it wrong is to consider what drives their growth The book provides a thoughtful critical analysis that upends entrenched misconceptions such as that we are running out of land for food production and that our only hope is the development of new agricultural technologies The book contains engaging and enlightening vignettes and short histories with case studies drawn from across the globe to bring to life this important debate and dilemma The book concludes by arguing there is a viable alternative to industrial agriculture which will allow us to meet the world s needs and it ponders why such alternatives have been downplayed obscured or hidden from view This important book is essential reading for all studying and researching food production and agriculture and more broadly for all interested in ensuring we are able to feed our growing population Seeking a Richer Harvest Tina Thurston, Christopher T Fisher, 2006-11-25 Subsistence intensification innovation and change have long figured prominently in explanations for the development of social complexity among foragers and horticulturalists and the rise of chiefly societies and archaic states yet there is considerable debate over the actual mechanisms that promote these processes Traditional approaches to the intensification question emphasize population pressure climate change bureaucratic management or even land degradation as prerequisites for the onset of new or changing strategies or the construction and maintenance of agricultural landscapes Most often these factors are modeled as external forces outside the realm of human decision making but recent archaeological research presents an alternative to this suggesting that subsistence intensification is the result of human driven strategies for power prestige and status stemming from internal conditions within a group When responding to environmental adversity human groups were less frequently the victims as they have been repeatedly portrayed Instead human groups were often vigorous actors responding with resilience ingenuity and planning to flourish or survive within dynamic and sometimes unpredictable social and natural milieux

Ecology of African Pastoralist Societies Katherine Homewood, 2008 A synthesis of the literature on pastoralist societies this book presents a discussion of their importance for African societies It is aimed at the scholars and practitioners concerned with Africa's livestock keeping people

Agricultural Strategies Joyce Marcus, Charles Stanish, 2006 This volume brings together a diverse set of new studies archaeological ethnohistoric and ethnographic that focus on agricultural intensification and hydraulic systems around the world Fifteen chapters written by many of the world's leading experts combine extensive regional overviews of agricultural histories with in depth case studies In this volume are chapters on agriculture in the Middle East South Asia Europe Oceania Mesoamerica and South America A wide range of theoretical perspectives and approaches are used to provide a framework for agricultural land use and water management in a variety of cultural and historical contexts This book covers the co evolutionary relationships among sociopolitical structure agriculture land use and water control Agricultural Strategies is an invaluable resource for those engaged in ongoing debates about the role of intensification and agriculture in the past and present

Agriculture and Human Values, 1997 Choice, 1999

Indigenous Traditions and Ecology John Grim, 2001 The authors a diverse group of indigenous and non native scholars and environmental activists address urgent questions facing indigenous communities as they struggle with threats to their own sovereignty increased market and media globalization and the conservation of endangered bioregions

Teaching + Learning Landscape Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture. Meeting, 2009 American Book Publishing Record, 1996 Ecology, 1997 At the Interface David B. Small, Nicola Tannenbaum, 1999-10-27 Co published with Society for Economic Anthropology SEA this volume takes a unique approach to the study of economics Rather than concentrating on a defined analytical unit it explores economics from the interface That is it examines the various kinds of relationships that can exist among and within economic units in a community and beyond The chapters treat the theme of the interface from four different perspectives intracommunity interfaces interfaces and the organization of communities extracommunity interfaces and the question of interfaces in archaeological investigations The authors address various topics related to household economy including the creation of different identities through shared labor the dialectical relationship between global forces and local producers in structuring economic contexts strategies that promote economic flexibility and environmental adaptation The Kiva ,2002 The Common Property Resource Digest ,1997 Journal of Anthropological Research ,2009
