

HOW THE GREAT LAKES WATER AUTHORITY SETS SEWER CHARGES

GLWA SEWER BUDGET

GLWA creates a sewer budget. Each community's sewer charge is based on the sewer budget and allocated as a "Share," which is determined by the flow it sends to GLWA's Water Resource Recovery Facility (previously known as the Wastewater Treatment Plant). The type of flow and how costly each type of flow is to treat determines a community's charge.

HOW CAN COMMUNITIES CONTROL THEIR SEWER CHARGES?

If a community can control its flow, it can control its cost.

Green Infrastructure¹

An example of green infrastructure is a green roof which soaks up rain water rather than letting it wash off into drains that lead to the Water Resource Recovery Facility. This reduces storm water flow.

Green infrastructure is an approach to water management that works with or mimics the natural water cycle.

System Maintenance

Regular maintenance, repair and improvements can help communities prevent increased flow from (DWI).

COMBINED SEWER SYSTEM

This system is more expensive for a community because all types of flows are combined, therefore they are all sent to the Water Resource Recovery Facility for treatment.
