Service Industries And Asia Pacific Cities:

Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities Peter W. Daniels, Kong Chong Ho, Tom Hutton, 2005-04-01 During the second half of the twentieth century development in the Asia Pacific region has been dominated by industrialization. However, at the beginning of the twenty-first century, services in particular finance, information, and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of urban growth. In Asia Pacific, the rise of service industries has led to national modernization programmes and globalization strategies. Services are also driving change in the internal form of city regions and are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use changes. These changes have created problems such as social polarization and the displacement of traditional industries and residential districts. Also, there are tensions between local and global processes in the development of service industries and between the imperatives of competitive advantage and sustainable development. Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities brings together a multi-disciplinary team of experts to explore and illustrate the theoretical, conceptual, and practical issues arising from the transformation of Asia Pacific cities by service industries.

The Handbook of Service Industries J. R. Bryson, P. W. Daniels, 2007-01-01 It contains an impressive array of important and useful material that should be familiar to anyone interested in economic growth and change. The potential value to be gained from these collected works is great. James E. Pratt, Growth and Change. Service activities are now acknowledged as key players in economic development, societal change, and public policy worldwide. This exciting Handbook not only contributes to ongoing conceptual debates about the nature of service-led economies and societies; it also pushes back the frontiers of current critical thinking about the role of service activities in urban and regional development and the important research agendas that remain to be addressed. Drawing on both theory and case studies, the contributors are international experts who have written original and stimulating chapters from a number of different disciplinary perspectives. Each chapter seeks to raise awareness of and to provoke debates about the opportunities and challenges presented by the shift to service employment. Providing a truly interdisciplinary analysis, The Handbook of Service Industries will be invaluable to scholars specializing in services research, as well as students and researchers in the areas of economics, geography, business, and management, sociology, public policy, and planning. The policy-making community will also find the Handbook a relevant and useful resource.

Producer Services in Cities of the Asia Pacific Economic Region Morshidi Sirat, Abdul Fatah Che Hamat, Nooriah Yusof, 2001 Much attention has been given recently to the role and contribution of producer services in advanced economies. In most of these economies, producer services account for no less than 50 percent of employment in metropolitan areas. Evidently, the increase in the share of producer services in all employment has been well documented for Europe and for North America. In so far as the Asia Pacific economic region is concerned, there is a similar pattern of growth and development, although this is only based on employment in finance, insurance, real estate, and business services. Producer services represent one of the key new growth sectors but in the context of the Asia Pacific economic region empirical work about how producer services are participating in and shaping the process of development remains to be undertaken In the case of many developing countries in the Asia Pacific economic region grouping producer services are heavily represented in urban and metropolitan areas which are more developed and functionally diverse However the role and contribution of producer services in the highest of the urban hierarchy in the developing countries of the region has not been examined adequately The study reported in this book is also based on various debates concerning the interurban location of producer service activities The overwhelming importance of face to face contact in both the acquisition of inputs and the delivery of the product to clients results in agglomeration economies maximizing and transaction cost minimizing in corporate activity complexes traditionally located in the CBD

Environment & Planning ,2012      Economic Development and Inequality in China Hong Yu,2011 The conventional belief that all regions have equally benefited from China's remarkable development over the last three decades is subjected to criticism in this book as Hong Yu systematically analyses the issue of regional inequality during the post 1978 period using the case of Guangdong Guangdong is one of the key industrial centres and economic powerhouses in China and as a pioneer province instigating economic reform as China opened up to the world it offers an ideal focus upon which to question and enrich the Western theories of economic geography and regional disparity Based on field research analysis of geographic characteristics and regression models this book illustrates how Guangdong's impressive development record has been marred by its rising regional disparity investigates the main causes of this disparity and draws conclusions regarding the lessons China can learn from it Economic Development and Inequality in China will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese economics Chinese regional studies economic geography and China Studies Hong Yu is a Visiting Research Fellow at the National University of Singapore His research interests lie in the field of regional economy He is the author of a chapter on China's two delta regions in the book China and The Global Economic Crisis      Globalized Freight Transport Thomas R. G. McGee,2001 The era of globalization is creating profound changes in global relationships changes that are manifest at international regional national and sub national levels making traditional regional development policy obsolete and irrelevant Traditional policy needs to be redefined and reconstructed so it can capture and articulate emerging regional trends and issues The first of four volumes based mainly on Global Forum on Regional Development Policy organized by the United Nations Centre for Regional Development in Nagoya Japan this book presents a broad theoretical and trend analysis of globalization and its effects on the theory and practice of regional development The book lays out the major components that merit consideration if there is to be new regional planning in this millennium While contributors to the volume do not agree on the effects of globalization on economic growth there is a consensus in the volume that globalization presents a challenge to conventional development theories The challenge for regional planners is to examine the impact and implications of recent structural changes on regional development planning and come up with viable and pragmatic regional development strategies This volume begins to meet that challenge by laying out the major components that merit consideration The following volumes will present detailed case studies of current regional planning practices focusing largely on developing countries
