

"We finished it exactly 11.30, as planned. The last notes of the 'Horn' Ring to be recorded were the last notes of 'Wotan'. In the control room we stood huddled, and although I do not remember it very clearly, I am sure that our thoughts went to the same direction, taking us back to an incident in that afternoon in September 1914 when the Rheingold I had just first recorded in the Nibelungen. It seemed like fifteen hours ago, the size of the Ring took, instead of seven years, but it was all there at last, for the pressure and tension generated to judge 'Die Erde' 'Horn' and, as he came in, quoting from his Act Two monologue, 'Die Erde'."

I went into the empty hall. The orchestra had gone. Looking up to see the big open rings in the distant lights I could see our three Rheingolds lying here and there pointed by Nibelungen in the opening scene of Rheingold; Flapdrell in a big person too, communicating with Wotan; the eighteen girls and the screaming children, brides and Woodpeckers lying the second in Act One of Siegfried; and Father that in his little room at the back. I thought of Christa Ludwig as Wotan in the scene to Brunnhilde with such quiet intensity in Act One of Götterdämmerung... "So now it, age like Wotan..."; the moment of Freia's return in Act Two, and Freia's Black Hopes, and Father's death of Siegfried, so easily sung by Woodpeckers, and the enormous singing of Nibelungen in the Immolation scene. And I thought of Harnet, the incomparable Harnet, who had just a few moments ago sung 'Ihren Elter' and 'Ihre der Frau, der Frau an die, die Frau' with such nobility and sorrow as words cannot describe.

I thought of Harnet, working himself to exhaustion, never losing his patience and yet never making an artistic compromise. I thought of my colleagues, and of all those in London and Zurich who had helped and supported us over the years, who had let us have our heads and pointed us the money and the conditions not just to make a recording of the Ring, but to do the job properly in the best of our abilities.

"Standing in the empty hall at the end of the last Wotan scene, with memories rushing all around us, we felt a strange mixture of sadness and pleasure. For better or worse, it was over. But now, even if it had been a major part of our lives, and it would not come our way again."

Ring Resounding:

Ring Resounding John Culshaw, 2012 Nothing in the history of recording approaches Decca's mammoth venture in producing Wagner's Ring complete for the first time. It was eight years in the making and this book tells the story of how it was made and the people who made it, written by the man who as the recording producer was in charge of the whole project. Conducted by the great Georg Solti, Decca's recording has been voted the best recording ever made. All the celebrated Wagner singers of their age take their places in the story, including Birgit Nilsson, Kirsten Flagstad, Hans Hotter, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Gottlob Frick, and Wolfgang Windgassen. The recording was made in Vienna with the Viennese Philharmonic Orchestra, and Culshaw displayed extraordinary dedication to Wagner's musical requirements and to putting into practice his own belief that a stereo recording could create a theatre of the mind. This is the story of how the recording evolved and how it frequently almost came to grief. More than that, it is the story of how a new medium recorded opera in stereo reached fulfilment and how this ground-breaking recording became seen as the highly influential gold standard for the future.

Ring Resounding John Culshaw, 1976 Ring resounding John Culshaw, 1967 Ring Resounding John Culshaw, 2005 It took eight years to record Wagner's Ring for the first time. The recording producer tells the story of how this grew from a wild imaginative idea into a mammoth project moving through crisis and chaos to triumph. He also talks about the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and the great singers who were involved in the project. It has historically been a vital and complex mixture of high art and commerce, socially elite and popular, or middle class, the new and the increasingly old. When a city wants a new landmark building, an opera house is very often the solution. Why should this still be the case? The Oxford Handbook of the Operatic Canon examines how opera has become the concrete edifice it was never meant to be by looking at how it evolved from a market entirely driven by novelty to one of the most artistically canonic art forms still in existence. This new collection addresses questions that are key to opera's past, present, and future. Why is the art form apparently so artistically canonical, with the top ten titles all more than a century old, accounting for nearly a quarter of all performances world-wide? Why is this top-heavy system of production becoming still more restrictive even while the repertory is seemingly expanding, notably to include early music? Why did the operatic canon evolve so differently from that of concert music? And why has that evolution attracted so comparatively little attention from scholars? Why, finally, if opera houses all over the world are dutifully honoring their audiences' loyalty to these favorite works, are they having to struggle so hard financially? Answers to these and other problems are offered here by 26 musicologists.
