Gewaltnarrativen ist und wie sie wirkungsvoll mit anderen Ansätzen verknüpft werden kann

Local Societies in Bronze Age Northern Europe Nils Anfinset, Melanie Wigglesworth, 2014-10-14 This book aims to understand the process of the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which are often regarded as the periphery and a bleak contrast to the Central European Bronze Age The Bronze Age is the first globalised period with new types of societies and new modes of exchange and trade In this context there is considerable local variation and diversity within the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which is poorly understood although there have been advances and changes in this research Therefore this book challenges some of the mainstream opinions on the Bronze Age of Northern Europe and focus on local and regional aspects This is done by a series of articles from significant contributors that deal with these issues on theoretical and empirical levels with regards to differences cultural dualism boundaries regions and regionality in a period of increased globalisation The result is a movement away from local and regional aspects toward communications travels and contacts between northern Europe and the greater world not only towards Central Europe and the Near East but also towards the east Northern Arctic Europe is often left out in these discussions and this book will contribute to this greater picture of the Bronze Age world

dlicher Konflikt zwischen Menschengruppen entwickelte sich erst in den folgenden Jahrtausenden. Dann aber konnte er wie beispielsweise in der klassischen Antike nachgerade zu einer Lebensform werden, die alle Bereiche gesellschaftlicher Existenz dominierte: von der Erziehung über die Kunst, die Geschlechterverhältnisse bis zu Technik und Handel. So verfolgt Armin Eich in seinem spannenden Buch die Geschichte des Krieges von den frühesten Anfängen bis zur Spätantike. Er erhellt, wie die zunehmende ökonomische Integration Europas und Vorderasiens im 2. Jahrtausend v. Chr. einen ersten Höhepunkt erreicht und nicht zuletzt auf dem Gebiet der Waffentechnologie und der Entwicklung militärischer Fähigkeiten Ausdruck findet. Dieser bronzezeitliche Rüstungswettlauf endet um 1200 v. Chr. in einem sozialen und ökonomischen Zusammenbruch, ohne freilich ein Umdenken auszulösen. Mit der wirtschaftlichen und demographischen Erholung nimmt schon bald wieder die Gewaltintensität zu und geht mit der Entwicklung verbesserter Waffen und effizienterer Kampftaktiken einher. Im 4. Jahrhundert v. Chr. kann man mit dem Aufkommen einer ersten Ingenieursliteratur gar von einer Verwissenschaftlichung des Krieges sprechen. Der einzige Ausweg aus der fortschreitenden Eskalation scheint die Errichtung eines auf militärischer Macht basierenden Friedensreiches zu sein, das vorübergehend im Imperium Romanum Gestalt gewann.

Core, Periphery, Frontier - Spatial Patterns of Power Jan Bemann, Dittmar Dahlmann, Detlev Taranczewski, 2021-01-18. Die Begriffe Zentrum und Peripherie sind im Diskurs von Macht und Herrschaft wesentlich. Aus einer breiten Palette methodisch wie regional unterschiedlicher Fachdisziplinen werden in diesem Band Einzelstudien präsentiert, die einem weiten Raum von Mitteleuropa im Westen über Japan im Osten und Ägypten im Süden entstammen. Davon ausgehend, dass die Betrachtung räumlicher Aspekte dazu beitragen kann, neue Erkenntnisse über die Phänomene Macht und Herrschaft zu gewinnen, werden die verschiedenen Weisen der Raumproduktion untersucht. Der gemeinsame Fokus aller Beiträge ist die Rolle einer Dichotomie von Zentrum/Kerngebiet und Peripherie/Grenzen in einem repräsentierten/vorgestellten Raum. Diese Fokussierung erleichtert es, transkulturelle Ähnlichkeiten und Unterschiede historischen Vergleichens auszumachen.

Centre and periphery: two notions essential in the discourse of power and domination tend to be reified as a static, inert relation of an active dominating centre on one side with an acquiescent, docile periphery on the other. Far before a spatial turn came into vogue, philosophers like Immanuel Kant or sociologists such as Georg Simmel pointed out that space is not an entity existing besides human perceptiveness respectively without any relation to society. In this book, specialists in the history of various premodern societies are discussing manifold kinds of spatial differentiations and within that the role of a seemingly ubiquitous dichotomy between centre/core and periphery/frontier. The researches cover a vast region spanning from Central Europe in the West to Japan in the Far East and Egypt in the South.

Space-- Archaeology's Final Frontier? Roderick B. Salisbury, Dustin Keeler, 2007 This book discusses the cultural social and archaeological aspects of space and the impact of spatial concepts in practical archaeological case studies It summarizes recent developments and looks to the future exploring some of the cutting edge ideas in spatial method and theory The past decade has seen significant advances in the tools available for spatial analysis in archaeology and theory and method regarding the spatial character of archaeology must keep pace with these advances Geomorphological and geochemical techniques geographic information systems remotely sensed data virtual reality and electronic survey technology provide new opportunities but also require new ideas This book gives us insight into the ways that people have used space to subsist to recreate their culture in their homelands or in new areas or impose their culture on others Contributors address the way archaeological notions of space and deep time can add to society's understanding of landscape social relationships past environment and cultural heritage The contributions from Europe and North America demonstrate intercontinental connections and explore ways of using dynamic models of spatial patterning to assess human activity within natural and cultural landscapes Lithics in the Scandinavian Late Bronze Age Anders Högberg, 2009 This volume examines the large flint knife blade asking why these artefacts were so common in the late Bronze Age of southern Scandinavia a time which is supposed to be characterised by the transition from bronze to iron technology
